American Aviators Will Delay Departure From Igloo to Labrador Until Friday at Least.

RICHMOND NEARING LABRADOR HARBOR

Airmen Expect to Make Brief Stop at Indian Harbor and Then Fly to Cartwright Bay Same Day.

By the Associated Press.
ON BOARD U. S. CRUISER RICHMOND (By Wireless), Aug. 27.—The American round-the-world flyers have postponed their departure, scheduled for tomorrow morning, from Igloo, Greenland, to Indian Harbor, Labrador, because of adverse weather reports.

Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. Erik H. Nelson and their mechanics, Lieut. John Harding Jr. and Lieut. Leslie P. Arnold, will not start from Igloo until Friday, at the earliest.

The Richmond is scheduled to arrive today at Ice Thicket, the last of the series of landings, two miles north of Indian Harbor, where the flyers expect to land.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, Aug. 27.—A severe storm swept over Newfoundland today and marine reports said that the storm area seemed to be moving toward Labrador.

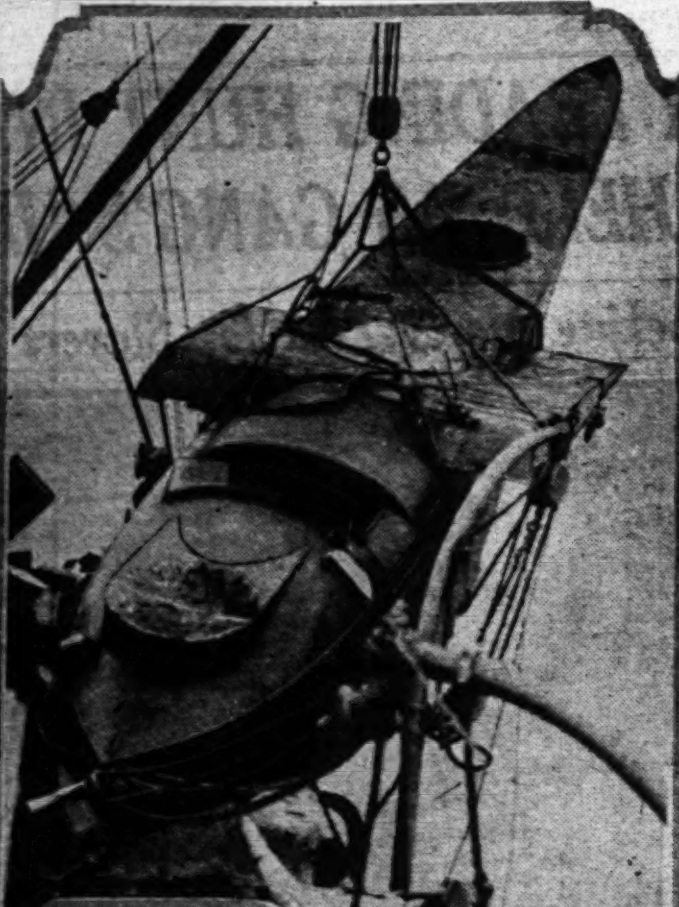

The storm appears to be the one which swept the Atlantic coast yesterday. The marine reports say the American flyers probably will find it impossible to set out for Labrador until the weather clears.

Only Brief Stop Planned for Indian Harbor.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The American world flyers planned to embark Thursday on their final voyage of 572 miles from Igloo, Greenland, to Indian Harbor, Labrador, Lieut. Smith, commanding the flight, informed the army air service yesterday. After a brief stop at the latter port for fuel, the flight is to be continued the same day, 46 miles to Cartwright Bay, where a base has been established.

The dispatch from Lieut. Smith declared preparations had been completed so far as the Greenland party was concerned. The special naval squadron co-operating with the flyers, also was ready to cover the last serious hazard. The ship, the USS. Albatross, was at Indian Harbor yesterday and the cruiser, Richmond, reported en route, was due there today.

Lieutenant Smith's plane could have been saved.

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. RICHMOND, Aug. 27.—Rear Admiral Dyer, in command of the patrol squadron covering the course of the American army around the world flyers, was informed yesterday by Lieut. Lowell H. Smith that the ship, the USS. Albatross, was at Indian Harbor yesterday and the cruiser, Richmond, reported en route, was due there today.

MAJ. A. STUART MACLAREN W. H. PLENDERLEITH, MacLaren's Pilot.

At top is shown the hoisting of MacLaren's flying boat from the ship to the biplane to the wharf at Vancouver, from which it is being carried by rail to the Atlantic seaboard, where it will be shipped to England. The ship was sent by the British Government to bring MacLaren to Vancouver after his plane collapsed off the coast of Siberia. MacLaren and Plenderleith were photographed on their arrival at Vancouver last Friday.

Pictou goes ahead planning great things in greeting. The Canadian destroyer Patriot has been in port since Aug. 12 to assist and honor the globe argonauts. The Pictou highlanders, under Lieutenant-Colonel L. H. McKennie, D. S. O., have orders from the Canadian Minister of Defense to stay in camp near here until Aug. 29, several days past their usual summer period, to help do the honors.

TOKIO, Aug. 27.—Maj. Pedro Zamora, Argentine aviator, now stalled on his globe-circling flight at Hanoi, French Indo-China, will continue his flight across the Pacific Ocean, according to Patrick Murphy, advance agent for the aviator, who arrived here today for the purpose of arranging with Japanese authorities landing details of the flight through Korea and Japan. "Maj. Zamora's program calls for entering the globe," said Murphy. "There has been no change in this program. Maj. Zamora's attempt to cross the Pacific will be made in October, when weather conditions are similar to those in April, when the American aviators crossed the Pacific. In October the Northern seas are cold, but summer fogs are dispelled."

Chapel, Once Jail, Is Chapel Again.
ROTHSCHILD, England, Aug. 26.—Used in turn as a town jail, almshouse and tobacco shop during its 400 years' history, the chapel on the old stone bridge here has been reconsecrated for religious services. The building was originally a chantry chapel.

cause of any personal feeling of revenge.
Early Rush to Courtroom.
Anticipating a possible ending today of the hearing, there was an early rush to obtain seats in the courtroom.

Crowe, whose opening attack yesterday was marked by ironical jests and scathing sarcasm, was expected to consume the entire day, developing his denunciation of the defendants and the tactics of their counsel, Clarence S. Darrow and the Bachrach brothers, Benjamin and Walter.

After Crowe finished, the Court is to spend about an hour disposing of the indictment charging kidnapping of Robert Franks. Then, technically, the proceedings have had to do only with the plea of guilty to the murder indictment.

Judge Moses Hartmann of the St. Louis Circuit Court and his wife attended the hearing today. With other visiting jurists, Hartmann occupied the bench with Judge Caverly. Mrs. Hartmann sat near members of the defendants' families, inside the railing.

Crowe, in opening his attack on defense attorney, criticized Dr. William A. White's record in the Eastern case and Benjamin Bachrach, inside the railing. The Court had not permitted the defense to discuss that case. Judge Caverly made no ruling and Crowe went ahead.

"Prison psychosis" was the defense in that case, the prosecutor said, and he added:
"Court Imposed Upon."
"This was a newly discovered disease, discovered just as mysteriously as it came on," said Crowe, "and in all probability that will happen here."

"If that disease had not been found; if the State's Attorney had not fastened this crime upon the defendants, Nathan Leopold Jr. and the other capital of Europe, indulging his lust on the $5000 wrong from Jacob Franks."
Crowe says Leopold was drunk.

Bachrach renewed his objection and the Court said:
"It is true the defense was not allowed to go into the Gonales case. But this Court is not going to be swayed by arguments that go outside the record."
Crowe maintained his right to criticize Dr. White, just as Darrow had criticized Dr. William O. Krohn, State's Attorney, who he charged that expert with perjury. The prosecutor asserted that if lay testimony that Leopold had on one occasion fallen in the water, frothing at the mouth, had not broken down on cross-examination, the defense would have pleaded epilepsy.

"Leopold was stiff in more senses than one," he said, "and he shouted, 'He was drunk.'"
"I submit, Your Honor, that this has not been an honest defense. I submit that it has been built up to fit the circumstances."
Defense's Last Government.
Crowe turned to the report of the defense's examining physicians and picked at its record of Leopold's earlier life.

The report mentions only one failing, said Crowe, "and that is, he was a drunkard." The defense attorneys tried to supplement this with others, and your honor will recall that those others turned out to be drunken stupors.
The State's Attorney again defended the government, who had charge of Leopold through childhood.

"The defense tried to prove her abnormal," he said, "and introduced a letter she wrote Leopold and a photograph to show she was some weird, terrible creature."
"If I ever read a kind, loving letter of advice of the kind so sorely needed by these defendants, it was that letter. And the defense attorneys themselves said she was of attractive appearance, quietly and modestly dressed."

Gave Lie to the Defense.
"She said the boy never had been the victim of dreams or phantasies. She came here to do all she could to help the boy, short of perjury. And that is the reason she was not brought into court to testify."
"She was quite unaware he was a petty thief or played detective. The defense claims she was with Leopold night and day for 15 years. Will you believe her or Dr. White as to whether Leopold was a thief? She gives the lie to the defense right there."

Crowe charged that the boys had been "advised" what to say to the defense attorneys in their examination in the county jail. He charged that the youths collaborated with the attorneys and doctors in improvising "this weird and uncanny defense."
The State's Attorney read an excerpt from the celebrated Hurlbut-Bowman report, which one of the authors had testified "never had been intended to be read by the prosecutor. The report was written by a certain legal advantage in the suppression of some of the details of the boys' mental processes."

Rebukes Defense Points.
Crowe rebuked defense points as to the ambitions of the boys.
"They said Leopold had no ambition," he said. "Then they say Leopold had great ambitions and, therefore, was mentally sick."
"The defense says Leopold poisoned his mind by reading detective stories. So did I. I remember crawling under the bed to read Jack Carter and when I was in Yale University I still enjoyed mystery novels. Why, your Honor, that is normal.

"But the doctors said he read good books—Dickens and Thackeray."
"And the defense says Leopold murdered little Bobby Franks for a thrill. But the doctors say he craved no excitement or thrills."
"They say he never played marbles or baseball or other games with boys, but Leopold told the doctors he was inclined to be a leader in athletics."

On Leopold's Magazine.
As the prosecutor read the report and compared its finding with defense argument, Judge Caverly leaned back with eyes closed and hand shielding his vision from the August sunlight pouring into the room from a dozen big windows.
A small periodical publication, "Richard's Magazine," edited and published by young Richard Leopold in early years, was shown by Crowe as showing "an advanced intellectual development for a boy of his age and the humanitarian environment of his home."

"And yet," he went on, "when it comes to save the necks of these criminals, the counsel for the defense tell your Honor that the parents, the environment of youth, are responsible for their fabled mental debility."
"Leopold, this poor little rich boy, was brought up in a glided care, with little chance to lose his wings. But the doctors found he had skated on a certain legal advantage, the thrill of yachting and tennis. Untold Episodes Still Unwritten."

"These men didn't lie to any of the talk with the alienists," he said, "then the report of Dr. Hurlbut and Bowman says flatly that during their examination Leopold did little and that he withheld certain facts from the alienists. It is inadvisable to mention or had been advised not to do so."
"In other words, some guileless attorney had prepared him for the talk with the alienists."

"And he told the doctors he would not mention certain things unless his brother, Allan, advised him to do so. And the stories have not been told yet."
Crowe read from the report a paragraph which advised the other defense attorneys, he maintained, not to go into the untold episodes. "Why," he asked, "these perverts, their emotions again and again, your Honor. And when they go to their just punishment, I predict they will have to be carried to the gallows."

He went on with scornful emphasis to quote Leopold's remark that "unfortunately the body was not kicked far enough into the cult."
Crowe said Leopold told the examiners that he "felt some slight remorse" when his mother remarked the killers of Bobby Franks ought to be tarred and feathered. "That means a mob," said Crowe. "Mr. Darrow has talked about the clamor of the mob, but we will not hear it if these perverts get their just punishment. I am not so sure otherwise."

The prosecutor said Dr. Krohn had been criticized for saying the defendants were properly oriented, but that the defense examiners had found Leopold correctly oriented in jail as to name, place and surroundings.
"Are they mad boys, or depraved men seeking to cover up their crime?" asked Crowe.

As court adjourned for the noon recess, Leopold and Leopold left the room, nodding and smiling to acquaintances.
Death Car License Covered.
"I don't intend to take up too much of your honor's time," said Crowe at the start of the afternoon session. "Your honor has been very patient and I do not wish to impose on that quality."

"But where capital crime is the issue and human lives or the integrity of the laws of Illinois are concerned, I think too much care cannot be taken. So I wish to call your attention now to a few things which strike me as showing that this crime was not the irresponsible act of two mad boys, but a deliberately planned murder with money as the motive."
He then reviewed the testimony touching upon the arrangements made by the boys for establishing their identities, disposing of the body, collecting the ransom money and the great care with which they went about covering up of their tracks. He pointed to the precaution of their having covered the license plate of the death car with a black cloth to prevent detection. He emphasized that the preparation for the crime had extended over a period of several months. Leopold to the Aliens.

"I tried to get on cross-examination an admission that boys who could plan a crime in such detail, boys of such abandoned and malignant hearts as these, might perhaps be a bit to friendly alienists in a chance to save their wretched lives."

"But, oh, no! That was impossible! But the report made by the defense examiner shows a belief that they could so lie and did do that very thing."
Crowe again read from the Hurlbut-Bowman report and argued the presence therein of quotations in which the defendants said "five thousand dollars is five thousand dollars," and that they would not have undertaken the plot if they were not certain of not being caught.

"Was that the mad thought of a mad boy?" he queried. "And Leopold said he feared being caught because he was afraid of his father, a sick man, could not stand the shock."
"Was that the thought of an unemotional machine?"

He read, too, that Leopold's "first feeling on reading in a newspaper interview that Mrs. Franks was not vindictive, was a feeling of joy, that it might help him."
Made for Insanity Plea.
Crowe said that testimony that Leopold had once considered killing his little brother or his father "was thrown in for good measure."

"It is perjured," he said quietly. "It is only part of a defense manufactured to give the idea of insanity."
That Leopold could not consent to making his brother the victim because he was "tremendously fond" of him, was, Crowe said, only another evidence of emotion in the defendant.
The prosecutor's voice came up again as he quoted from the report that a plan to kidnap Richard Rubel was given up "because his father was so tight that it would be impossible to get money from him."

posed to exist among thieves. turned to face the defendant this and Leopold smiled.

Thought of Freedom House, but knew no safe way of escape. "Loeb would have killed Leopold," he said. "Well, he had done so and then committed suicide."

"But he was afraid of being caught. Always, your honor, thought of their own predicament."

The prosecutor went back to money was their thought, "he said. "Loeb believed that his father millions would protect him."

"Crowe took up the defendant expressed thought of the possibility of escape from jail."

"That was not so far-fetched as to be a mad thought," said Crowe. "Tommy Connors, Chicago's most dangerous human, engineered a successful jail delivery here."

"My God, Judge, how the fathers and mothers of this community would shudder if their children were on the streets with these two mad dogs at large."

Denounces Superman Idea. Turning to the superman idea, which was claimed by the defense to have obsessed Leopold, Crowe read from the report Loeb's quotation that he took such talk "with a great big dose of salts."

"Yes, salts," he muttered contemptuously. "Salt for this poor mad boy; and yet these three wisemen from the East swallowed it as if it were sugar!"

Crowe grew bitterly sarcastic as he discussed again the possibility of escape. He referred in the same vein to a possible pardon by the Governor of Illinois, then went back to the report.

TO RATIFY NICKEL PLATE DEAL. Pere Marquette Will Be Last of Bonds in Merger to Act.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Formal ratification of the Nickel Plate railroad merger, directed by the Van Sweringen interests, of Cleveland, will be voted tomorrow by directors of the Pere Marquette Railway Co., the last of the five roads which are to enter the new system to signify approval of the plan.

Acceptance of the offer by the Pere Marquette virtually will complete the proposed consolidation, which will bring more than 14,000 miles of railway in the Eastern section of the country under unified operation and control. Stockholders of the five roads will be asked, simultaneously, to ratify the merger, and, following their action, approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be sought.

California Congressmen Win All But Two of 10 Districts Vote to Return Incumbents.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—In the Tenth Congressional District, where Representative John D. Fredericks was opposed by Ralph C. Crisswell for the Republican nomination for Congress, the result of the election was not decided when the tabulation of the results of yesterday's primary were resumed today.

On the face of the count, the returns show the nominations of their own parties and some of the opposition of the party, well, to succeed themselves at the National Capitol. Mrs. Mae E. Kahn did not care to make the race in the Fifth Congressional District, which lies in San Francisco County, and Lawrence J. Mahoney, United States Surveyor of Ontario, easily won the Republican and Democratic nomination in a strong labor constituency.

In another San Francisco District, the fourth, Representative Kahn won an overwhelming victory over Henry C. Hook, who had the Republican nomination.

Representative Kahn was opposed by the Democratic endorsement of the state district when all but small precincts had reported. Al Carter had a lead of more than 2,000 votes over Congressman H. MacLafferty, for the Republican nomination.

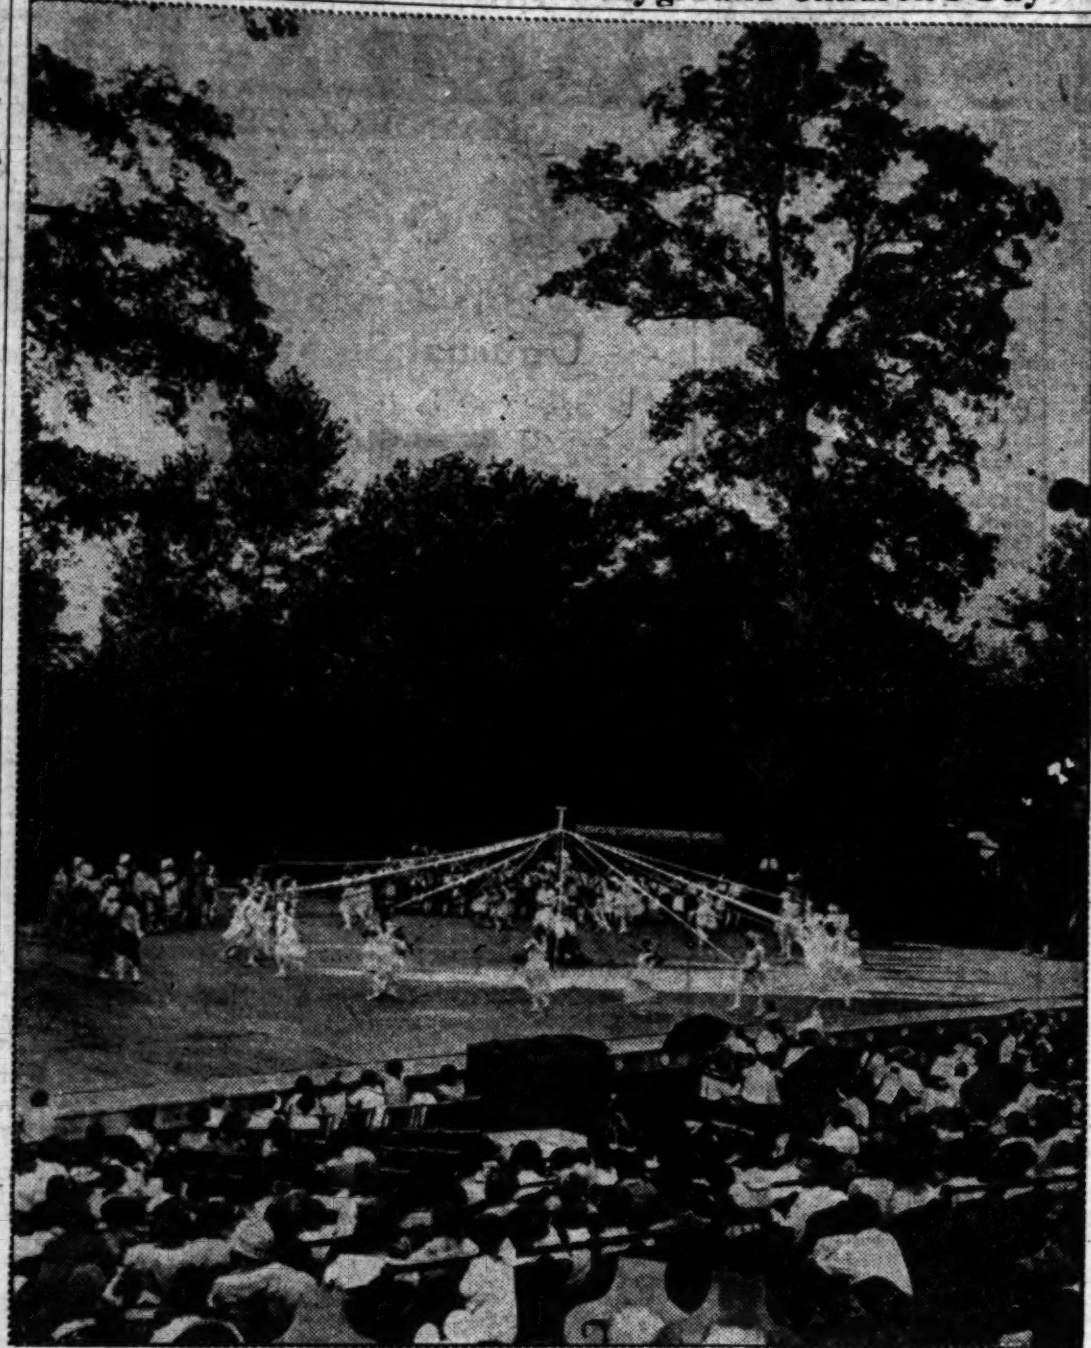

Held for Counterfeiting Plot. COLN, Neb., Aug. 27.—W. N. L. 44 years old, and his stepson, Edouard O. L., are under arrest today, charged with attempting to counterfeit silver dollars.

State and Federal authorities conducted a search for a third man, whose name is known, and who was arrested in Omaha. Two women were disclosed a quantity of counterfeit coins and molds of plaster of Paris.

The women were readily detected, and arrested. Parker formerly operated a bank store here and later in the same business at St. Louis.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED AGAINST JOHN L. GREEN

President of Laclede-Christy Clay Products Company Charged With Misconduct.

John L. Green, of 12 Kingsbury place, president of the Laclede-Christy Clay Products Co., was sued today for divorce.

His wife, Mrs. Sarah S. Green, charges intolerable indignities and misconduct with a woman named in the petition.

They were married June 9, 1919, and separated last Friday, the day upon which Mrs. Green charges her husband spent three hours in the apartment of the woman with whom she declares he has been associating. She also asserts she has been informed that Green pays the expenses of the apartment.

Other allegations are that Green has been meeting the other woman on street corners and taking long automobile rides with her.

Mrs. Green further charges that her husband has been neglectful of her, and has refused to speak to her for long periods, even shutting himself up in his room to avoid her. On one occasion he struck her in the face, she asserts.

Alimony and custody of their two minor children are asked by Mrs. Green, who declares her husband is not a fit person to have charge of them. There are two children, a son and a daughter.

A Day in Forest Park With 12,000 Children

Playground Boys and Girls Engage in Foot Races and Ball Games, Then Dance Themselves Home.

Children of the city's playgrounds—12,000 of them—countless mothers—yesterday had their day in Forest Park.

It began early in the morning when the park was still calm and cool, the hotter it got the faster went the play, small boys won foot races and ball games from other small boys. And then, as evening grew near, the competition of skill and strength bled to art, everyone deserted the sport field for the Municipal Theater, and there, as the sun got low, they played a graceful pantomime, and so doing danced themselves home.

This play-acting was exceedingly pretty. Through three acts it lasted, and for more than an hour, and never became tiresome.

The play was that classic of the fair tale library, "The Cinderella." It was a story told the trials and tribulations of the soldier who made Park that "little girl, 3 years old, in a blue dress, who thinks, her name is Susie, is lost," or that "a boy of 4, in khaki pants, has lost his mother. He doesn't know his name." And the loud speaker man would put a piece of gum in the unhappy one's mouth, there to join a lollipop which the policeman, who first found the forlorn one crying by the roadside, had already injected.

But all the drama was not entered on the theater stage. All day long the may in the loud speaker stand was announcing to Forest Park that "a little girl, 3 years old, in a blue dress, who thinks, her name is Susie, is lost," or that "a boy of 4, in khaki pants, has lost his mother. He doesn't know his name." And the loud speaker man would put a piece of gum in the unhappy one's mouth, there to join a lollipop which the policeman, who first found the forlorn one crying by the roadside, had already injected.

And the loud speaker man would put a piece of gum in the unhappy one's mouth, there to join a lollipop which the policeman, who first found the forlorn one crying by the roadside, had already injected.

But all the drama was not entered on the theater stage. All day long the may in the loud speaker stand was announcing to Forest Park that "a little girl, 3 years old, in a blue dress, who thinks, her name is Susie, is lost," or that "a boy of 4, in khaki pants, has lost his mother. He doesn't know his name." ## SECOND VANDERBILT MARRIAGE IN CULT

Followers of Oom the Omnipotent Marries Mrs. Barbara Rutherford Hatch.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Another love of the marrying kind has opened in the intimate atmosphere of the cult of the Tantriks, which flourishes in Nyack, N. Y., under the leadership of Oom the Omnipotent, more specifically Pierre A. Bernard, who was once plain Peter Cooch of Chicago, barber and professional baseball player.

Mrs. Barbara Rutherford Hatch, daughter of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, was married Aug. 15 to Winfield Jesse Nichols, described as an artist, who has been her constant companion for a year or more and is said to be a follower of Oom. Mrs. Hatch also has been a member of Oom's colony, which now has the formal title of the Clarkstown Country Club. She is the second daughter of Mrs. Vanderbilt to marry in the Oom circle.

Formal announcement of the marriage was not made until after reporters had found the marriage license record yesterday. Then Sir Paul Dukes, brother-in-law of the bride, issued a statement in Nyack, in which he said:

"Mrs. Hatch, with the full consent of all her relatives, married Winfield Nichols, Aug. 15. She and our family have known him for six years. By then it was believed that he was a devotee of Mr. Hargis. The marriage was planned and arranged a week before Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt sailed for Europe."

St. Paul's marriage of the former Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, a daughter of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, came after both had been members of the Oom colony. Their wedding in October, 1922, also was secret. They are still members of the colony.

Little is known in Nyack beyond the meager description of Nichols by St. Paul yesterday and the record of the marriage license application. In the latter he states he is 40, an artist, the son of H. M. Nichols, who then it was believed he was a devotee of Mr. Hargis, and that this marriage is his first.

He was known for two years to the villagers of Nyack only as "Mr. Hargis." By then it was believed he was a devotee of Mr. Hargis, and that this marriage is his first.

Inspector in Mail Robbery Hunt Held as Gang's Brains

In the Roundout robbery. His arrest is set for Sept. 6.

"I saw it coming," said "Murray," the man to whom he referred was Jimmie Murray, West Side politician who, police say, also engaged in beer-running. The West Side was arrested about the time of the $1,000,000 robbery.

"Murray and I were brought up together," said Fahy. "He has always been my friend. While he's no stool pigeon, he has slipped more than one good trip."

"I saw this thing coming some time ago. It wasn't any particular surprise to me. But it's a frame. Everything will come out in the wash."

While the agents investigating the case admit they haven't found any of the loot in Fahy's possession, they say they're sure that he has some of it cached somewhere. But here are some of the facts against their fellow sleuths they have found, they say:

That he extracted from his files information and evidence on which the Government was basing its hope for

TESTIMONY HEARD IN PLAYGROUND SUIT

Citizens Tell of Alleged Defects in Apparatus Furnished by F. J. Feineman.

Testimony in a suit to enjoin the Board of Education from accepting playground apparatus furnished by F. J. Feineman, or paying for the property with school funds, is being heard by Circuit Judge Calhoun. The suit was filed by 12 citizens, who assert the material contained in the apparatus is not according to specifications.

Feineman, who is in business at 404 Pine street, was awarded the contract for furnishing the playground equipment, his bid, $24,977.50, being lower than the price submitted by two other bidders.

Testimony of Contractor. It developed at the hearing yesterday that the board has not yet paid for the equipment, and that before the suit was filed Feineman was notified by R. M. Milligan, Commissioner of Buildings of the Board of Education, that certain parts did not meet the specifications. He had ordered the work of installation stopped until defects were corrected. He admitted that he had recommended some changes after the contract had been let, such as using fir wood instead of oak for the "saw" boards, eliminating certain platforms and narrowing the diameter of piping for the slides. These changes, he said, would make some reduction in the price in favor of the board, to which the board is entitled under the contract.

Testimony showed that galvanizing on some of the piping furnished had been improperly done, thereby subjecting the material to rust. A representative of the Building Commissioner stated that he notified the contractor this defect would have to be corrected. Counsel for the defense brought out that plaintiffs in the case are employees of unsuccessful bidders. Philip S. Medart, vice president of the Medart Manufacturing Co., one of the bidders, testified he made an examination of the apparatus in question and found many points of difference between it and the specifications. He estimated the changes amounted to a profit of $1000 in favor of the contractor.

Apparatus for Playgrounds. The apparatus was ordered for playgrounds of the various public schools but has not been set up except at the Madison and one or two other schools. Counsel for the plaintiffs contends that some of the materials are unsafe. In response to inquiry Milligan admitted that at the time of the bidding Medart had said if the specifications were changed from oak to fir boards he would reduce his bid $1000, but at that time, Milligan said, he permitted the oak specification to stand.

"Are you in the habit of overlooking an opportunity to save $1000 for the board?" he was asked. He answered he was careful to take advantage of "any chance to save, but in this instance thought that oak was better. He was later advised by Rodowe Abken, director of public school playgrounds, that the fir wood was just as serviceable and better for the purpose.

Car Designed to Supplant "Local" on Branch Railroads Generates Its Own Electricity

A new type of gasoline-engine passenger coach, which generates its own electricity, by which it is operated, and is designed to supplant the three-wheel "local" on branch railroad lines, successfully completed trial runs last week near the St. Louis Car Co. plant where it was built.

The car, which combines the leading features of the street car, the automobile and the railroad coach, is the result of three years co-operative experiments by engineers. H. L. Hamilton, president of the Electro-Motive Co., Cleveland, designed it. Hamilton said the initial and operating costs are but one-third the amount necessary to operate a branch railroad line.

The car resembles a Pullman coach, and is divided into passenger, engine and smoking compartments. A 200-horse-power, six-cylinder engine is the source of power, transmitted through a generator, inducing current, and a set of motors, geared to the trucks, instead of the familiar clutch and gears on an automobile. Three control levers govern the operation of the car, the maximum speed of which is 60 miles an hour.

Total $3459.50The St. Louis Police Band concert at the Orpheum Theater last Saturday evening earned $946.50
for the Ice Fund, setting a new record for the Police Band. This is the fourth year that the use of the Orpheum Theater has been given for a complimentary opening benefitting the babies' fund, and the annual proceeds have been a substantial aid to the fund, particularly this year since the fund has lagged behind the records of former seasons. Orpheum Theater attaches, including members of the Theatrical Men's Union, motion picture operators, ushers and cashiers, donated their services for Saturday's performance in line with their usual custom, and their assistance helped make the concert
a financial success.A carnival at Cates avenue and North Parkview last Friday and Saturday evenings earned $84.55
for the Ice Fund, setting a new record for money earned through the activities of any one group of children this season. The former high mark was made by the Quin-trelles, a girls' club, who gave a show at 5748 McPherson avenue and earned $75.55. Included in the Cates avenue carnival were ice cream and candy booths, fortune telling and various other concessions. The boys and girls worked earnestly collecting donations prior to the affair and two of the workers, Ruth Siegel and Eugene Tach-schmidt, hallyhooped so strenuously for the wheel of fortune that Sunday morning found them unable to speak above a whisper.Assisting Ruth and Eugene were Virginia Tuschmidt, Ruth Per-mutter, John Tuschmidt and Norville Perlmutter. Norville Gold-wasser and Edna Siegel, all of whom deserve a great deal of credit for their work for the babies.Ice cream was donated by the Larimore Ice Cream Co., Dor-
r-Zeller Catering Co. and the Arrow Ice Cream Co.Eight children residing in the neighborhood gave a show at 1722
Michigan avenue and earned $19.40 for the Ice Fund. Their names follow: Mildred Kneppel, Lollie Dwyer, Alice Turner, James
Rothery, Amelio Clarnello, Lloyd
Boyer, Jack Dwyer and Bruce Lewis.Ten girls gave a show on the lawn of 4894 Bruno avenue, and added $15 to the babies' fund. The workers were: Jean, Rosemary and Hallie Adleman, Ruth Bates, Milford Eckles, Vernell Diefenbrenner, Lillian Myers and Mary, Hester and Ruth Boyard.A show at 5548 Vernon avenue earned $8 for the Ice Fund. Those who took part were: Dolly and Rudolf Bierbaum, Estelle, Ruth and Marcelle Colares, Edna Pollock and Ruth Biewein.An anonymous cash donation of 50 cents was received from "E.
H. J."

3 HELD FOR SLAYING SHERIFF

Last of Trio of Negro Suspects Caught by Louisiana Force.

By the Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 21.—

Freeman Coleman, last of the trio of negro moonshiners charged with the slaying of Sheriff E. M. Rott
of Jackson parish, near Ansley last Friday night, has been captured.
Hooker Boone and Willie Washington also are behind the bars of jails at points which the authorities are keeping secret.Coleman was captured at the home of Charles Pierson, negro, at Mullinax Switch, six miles south of here. The capture was made by three members of the posse which has been constantly in pursuit of the negroes since the crime last week. Negroes in the vicinity had been instructed by the Sheriff leading the pursuit to entertain Coleman should he come to any house for food or shelter and then give alarm to members of the posse.
These instructions were carried out.

GERMANY DISCHARGES 400,000

State Employees Let Out in Order to Balance Budget.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 21.—Four hundred thousand, of 1,500,000 State employees, have been discharged in Germany during the last few months, under a law providing for a general reduction of officials to aid in balancing the budget.It is estimated that 420,000,000 gold marks (approximately $167,- 000,000) will be saved for the Government by the enforcement of the measure, a sum constituting about one-seventh of the total State expenditures. Several of the groups complain, however, because the wholesale discharge of State employees adds to the list of unemployed. General conditions on the labor market are bad, and it is held improbable that many of these discharged can find work elsewhere.Important!

COOLIDGE'S LUNCH FOR WALES TO BE PRIVATE

Royal Visitor to Arrive in Washington Saturday on Special Train; No Official Ceremony.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Washington is all set for the visit of the Prince of Wales, who is due to arrive at the capital by special train a little after noon next Saturday.

The Prince will be met at the Union Station by the President's car and thence will proceed to the White House where, in informal fashion, he will have luncheon "en famille" with the President and Mrs. Coolidge. Possibly after the luncheon, which is to be very strictly confined to the members of the White House family, a few officials may be received, but this is uncertain. Before nightfall his royal highness will be speeding back to New York aboard his special train.

Although he arrives on American soil as the Prince of Wales, the fact that the heir to the British throne visits Washington solely and simply as the private and personal guest of the President and Mrs. Coolidge is stressed on all sides. On this account, there will be no ceremony, no salutes, no parades and no formal escort.

To Meet Prince at Quarantine. As the President's personal representative the Assistant Secretary of State, J. Butler Wright, accompanied by the President's military aide, Maj. Oscar N. Solbert, U. S. A., will be members of a small group, including the Ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Esme Howard, and members of the embassy staff, who will greet the Prince when the Berengaria arrives at quarantine on Friday afternoon. In company with the British Ambassador, the Prince, upon disembarking, will immediately proceed to the home of James A. Burden of Long Island, which has been placed at his disposal during his sojourn in the United States. The Assistant Secretary of State and Maj. Solbert remain in New York, and on Saturday will accompany the Prince on the trip to Washington. They will also accompany him on the return journey to New York.

By a happy coincidence, Wright was counselor of the American Embassy at London when Maj. Solbert was attached to the embassy as military attaché, consequently in the persons of the President's representatives the Prince will renew an acquaintance dating over a period of several years.

Visit Entirely Informal. The extremely simple and unostentatious reception given the Prince, who, on his former visit to Washington was greatly feted, follows closely the desires of the royal visitor who is very anxious to escape the "rigor" of state ceremony. His visit to the United States was brought about entirely by reason of his interest in the international polo games and he is accepting no other invitation, official or private. The international matches will be played Sept. 6, 9 and 13 and upon the conclusion of the series the Prince will proceed to his ranch at Calgary, Canada.

One lone attaché and a small detail of servants, maintain a gloomy "summer state" at the British embassy quarters here. The presence of the heir to the British crown will not induce any change whatever in their somber situation. Had the British Prince arrived "in state" the entire embassy personnel, happily established in summer quarters in the north, would have hurried back to prepare a formal program. As things stand, the usual string pulling, the scheming and contriving for a part in the fetes induced by the visit of so notably distinguished a foreign guest will be averted. Consideration for the recent bereavement of the White House family, no less than distance for form and ceremony, also had a part to play in the decision of his royal highness to make his return visit to the American capital notable chiefly by its entire absence of ceremony.

Had Tea With Mrs. Wilson. While Washington will have but a fleeting glimpse of the royal visitor, the citizenship of the capital will do him all the honor that flooding hunting and crowded thoroughfares can accomplish. The uncertainty as to the exact hour of the arrival of the special train bearing the Prince and the little company who will make the journey with him, will prevent any special demonstration. However, this being the special season of the "summer tripper" the parks and avenues adjacent to the White House will have their usual throng of sightseers considerably increased and it is entirely unlikely that the big White House limousine bearing the President's guest will "get past" without some sort of informal demonstration.

The coming visit of the Prince recalls his last visit to Washington. Arriving when the late President Wilson was gradually coming out of the period of entire isolation into which his illness plunged him, the Prince made a call of ceremony at the White House and had tea with Mrs. Wilson. Expressing his disappointment at not meeting the President, ceremony was waived and the royal visitor made a bedside call upon Mr. Wilson.

Two Girls Lost in Fire. By the Associated Press. PLAQUEMINE, La., Aug. 27.—The 3 and 5 year old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Dadauche of St. Gabriel were burned to death and the parents seriously injured early yesterday when fire destroyed their home.

DAVIS TURNS SA G. O. P. CLAIMS BEFORE OHIO

"Surprised" at White
for Oil Inquiry—Re Responsibility for

United States Press.
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 27.—Common honesty, common justice and common courage in government are the things that the Democratic party has to offer the country, John W. Davis, its presidential standard-bearer, declared yesterday in his first address in the West. He spoke before the Ohio State Democratic convention and was given an enthusiastic reception.

Davis said first of all there should be common justice in legislation and courage in administration, not only in domestic affairs, but in the foreign field and courage "in the great cause of peace."

"I want the Government of the United States not to tip-toe behind closed doors for fear the Senate may overhear it," the nominee said. "I want it not to sit abroad with unofficial observers, peeping through every international keyhole. I want it not to absent itself from the great council of the nations where the destinies of mankind are to be decided and divided. I want the United States as a nation to stand as an equal among the nations of the world and do her full share to bring about for all mankind a full and everlasting
peace."

Speaks Without Manuscript.
Speaking for the first time in this campaign without manuscript or notes, Davis not only presented the platform upon which he asks to be elected, but he lashed out at the Republican party on the record of its administration of the Government in the last three and a half years.

The nominee first analyzed the acceptance address of President Coolidge and his veiled sarcasm provoked frequent applause and laughter.

After his address to the convention where he was presented to his audience by former Governor James M. Cox, the Democratic presidential standard-bearer four years ago, Davis went to the State Fair grounds where he spoke internally to a crowd of many thousands. He declared there he did not desire to make a political speech, but had one message to deliver, that the men and women of the United States should resolve themselves as units in the Government and should earnestly endeavor to perform each one his duties.

Indifference of some citizens of the Government will destroy it quicker than communists, bolshevism or others, Davis declared.

"After his appearance at the fair grounds, Davis departed for New York, where he will prepare for the first extended speaking trip on his campaign, which will begin at Wheeling, W. Va., on Labor Day.

Address to Convention.

Davis' address before the Ohio Democratic State convention was as follows:

"What is the issue that you bid me submit to the American people?" Davis said. "I care not in what words we put it. Honesty in Government; fidelity in administration; uprightness in the administration of the law; justice in the passage of legislation—if all come,
in the last resolve, to the question of party responsibility."

"This is a Government by parties.
They are our agents and our servants, and every election—local or state or national is an appraisal
by the people of the conduct of their servants and an expression of their satisfaction or dissatisfaction with the manner in which their duties have been performed."

"That is the issue that you Democrats are going to submit to your fellow citizens in Ohio this fall? That is the issue which comes in power, whether they choose it or not, must submit to the people of the United States."

"I was asked the other day for my definition of the difference between a Democrat and a Republican, and I suggested that in this year of grace I thought that the great outstanding distinction between the members of the two parties was this: that a Democrat remembered the record of his party's past and a Republican forgot it."

"Now, how shall we test parties?"
When we come to weigh the things that they have done in their public life, how shall we test them? Shall it be by their performance? Shall it be by their character? Shall it be by their character as measured under a common leadership and able to perform the duties they are to perform?"

Remember Coolidge's speech.
"I have in my hand the statement made by the leader of the Republican party two weeks ago on the basis on which he would make the support of the American people. I wish to discuss it calmly and soberly, without passion, and

PARLIEU. The speaker, Herr Herriot obtained the Senate's ratification of the London agreement last night by a vote of 596 to 49.
The debate was almost entirely an oral duel between M. Herriot and
M. Poincaré, the former Premier of France. The speaker, who which consumed three and a half hours, was a brilliant defense of not be deceived by the words of Herriot's reply to his critics substantially a re-edition of his speech in the chamber. M. Main-morteau, who defended the government, declared that the speaker en-cured that allied co-operation upon which the entire Dawes plan rested.

The speaker, however, pointed out in the history of the reparations problem the country had something real and positive in consummated with a definite promise of peace.

M. Herriot spoke two and one-half hours. Both speeches, however, were practically dialogues, the Senate listening in rapt attention to a catechism in which the Premier and the former incumbent

Herriot's majority was greater than had been expected. The debate gave Poincare an opportunity to reply to Socialist Leader Leon Blum's violent attack as the Chamber of Deputies previously sanctioned his course by voting its confidence Sunday morning after an all-night session. The French Chamber and Senate adjourned today. M. Herriot and the Reparation

"Beware of the mysticism of peace," he warned the Senate. "We all desire peace. But Leon Blum had pictured Herriot as a sort of receiving officer or trustee for the liquidation of bankruptcy. Poincare declared this misrepresented the situation. He asserted there was a certain continuity of French policy in its essence, just as there was in the policies of other nations. It was not true, he said, that France had changed her conceptions as though under the influence of a magic Defending the occupation of the Ruhr, Poincaré observed: "Some people accuse me of being Satan, ready to separate France and England. Others reproach me for not

"Better Than Bonar-Law Scheme."
Poincare insisted that the Dawes plan was better than the Bonar Law scheme for the rejection of which he had been reproached, but he in turn criticised his successor for not maintaining profitable pledges pending the application of the experts' projects.

He also blamed Herriot for "sacrificing France's privileged position" on the reparations commission unconditionally, whereas, he

The Reichstag completed the second reading of the Dawes bill today and debate will be resumed on Thursday. By then it is hoped to have the party lineup fairly well determined, as interparty bargaining will engage the Reichstag leaders.

In all this, Poincare said, Herriot had acted as if the reparations commission were dead. However, the ex-Premier saw as the worst mistake of all the fact that Herriot was precipitated by the evacuation of the Ruhr despite pledges given by Herriot that the question should not be raised in London.

Warns Against Disarmament.

Replying to the argument that Herriot's hands were tied by the promise of Peincaire himself that the troops were sent into the Ruhr only to protect the engineers. He argued that this promise was nullified by Germany's resistance and general failure to fulfill the contract as recorded by the reparations commission. He contended that a limited occupation was indispensable until the German bonds are taken up, for in case of non-success the whole Dawes plan collapsed.

Our Wretched Street Signs.

When approaching a street in St. Louis, it is always necessary to stop and then turn around a lamp-post in order to ascertain the name of the street.

All streets should have a sign on the near right-hand corner facing the approaching street. For example, at the intersection of Grand and Olive, the Olive signs should be placed on the southeast corner facing south and on the northwest corner facing north. This would enable any one approaching Olive from north or south on Grand avenue to determine the name of the next street before reaching it.

There is no advantage in facing Olive street signs on Olive street. The signs should face approaching streets. After one has entered a thoroughfare it is no advantage whatever to see the name at every corner. The time for knowing the name of a street is before reaching it, and it is strange that our cities do not recognize this fact. I believe a great deal of confusion could be avoided by adopting this method. ST. LOUISIAN.

Dances on the La Follette Following.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

VICE-PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE DAWES in his acceptance speech flayed La Follette because Debs and Hillquit think that he (La Follette) is an honest man and agree to support him for the presidency.

In criticism of La Follette on account of the support of Debs and Hillquit, Dawes says the voters are "asked to leave important constitutional meetings to embark again into those contests through which it has fought up to the establishment of good government. Through the Civil War and through the World War our people have struggled to establish and maintain our constitutional principles. They are asked to follow into an attack upon them, massed behind an aggressive personality, a heterogeneous collection of those opposing the existing order of things, the greatest section of which, the Socialists, fits the red flag; and into what? Into confusion and conflict of ideas and ideals and into the reopening of war upon those fundamental principles of human liberty and the inalienable rights of men which are giving in this country safety and opportunity to the humblest, and to establish which the blood of our forefathers was shed. This is the predominant issue in this campaign."

Debs and Hillquit are Socialists; that is the worst that can be said of them. No one need be alarmed to be seen in their company. Coolidge and Dawes have been the friends and associates of Fall, Dasher, Daugherty and Forbes. I would like to know, in this case, are Coolidge and Dawes to be known by the company they keep?

After Gene Debs was released from Atlanta prison, and returned to his home in Indiana, Gen. McRae denounced Debs and tried to influence the American Legion against him. Today McRae is in the same Atlanta penitentiary, a convicted thief, while Debs is an honored citizen. Let me quote that great Hoosier poet, James Whitcomb Riley, on Debs: "There's Gene Debs, a man he stands, With nothing but his outstretched hands, A warmer heart has never beat Northward here and the judgment seat."

That is what Riley thought of Debs. But Dawes says it is a disgrace to associate with such a man. W. A. C.

Political Building Inspection.

I wish to say that what occurred at Twelfth and Pine streets is not one, two or three, what is going to happen if they keep politicians doing the inspecting of the rotten buildings in this city. For instance, if the insurance companies of this city knew that there have been over 1000 coal sheds turned into garages in this city in the last two years without a permit, people would not be able to procure insurance.

Why not let the police get the benefit of making any and all inspections, as they are the only people who make a report to their superiors, and the report can be seen any day at any police district where the officer walks his beat, who makes the report giving the dimensions and length and breadth of any derelict, in any public alley or street in this city.

This is no joke, and if the press of this city will only take up this matter, they will be able to save the city report $15,000 per year, and dispense with the ward gamblers or moon-grabbers.

THE AIR SERVICE BLUNDERED.

With the hop from Greenland to Labrador the round-the-world flight will have been completed; its practicability, or, at least, its possibility, will have been demonstrated. There will still remain the transatlantic jump to the starting point at Santa Monica before the adventure will have been technically concluded.

It has been a great adventure, watched by a fascinated world. There will be other round-the-world flights, but this is the capital enterprise, the pioneer, the only and eternal first.

St. Louis asked to be included in the itinerary. The War Department refused. It gave two reasons: First, that numerous cities throughout the country had made the same request, and to accede to one and decline all others would have occasioned embarrassment and furnished ground for criticism. Second, the department's desire to end the flight as soon as possible, with no unnecessary delay in crossing the United States.

Those reasons may sound plausible, but they are not convincing. In any event, sound reasons existed for complying with St. Louis' request, and those reasons, in our opinion, may still properly be urged. With due respect to the other cities, St. Louis had a claim for this consideration which no other city could present. That claim arose from the fact that St. Louis had conducted the most successful air meet ever held. Back of that meet were work, enthusiasm and genuine civic sacrifice. Many of our citizens either cut short or wholly omitted their usual vacations last summer in order to make that meet the fine success it proved to be.

St. Louis did far more than merely get ready for holding an exhibition. It resolutely jumped into the job of truly serving the cause of aeronautics. It exemplified in an extraordinary degree the public spirit which the air service has been trying to inspire and cultivate.

St. Louis built and equipped a permanent flying field. The city did precisely what departmental Washington fervently hoped but hardly believed would be done. As a result, St. Louis now has a real aerial terminal. It offers visiting airmen everything in the way of facilities which they require. Further, the air meet in St. Louis last fall was more than a municipal event. It was sectional. The whole Southwest participated in it.

Such was our claim for St. Louis' place on the route of the round-the-world flight. Frankly, it should never have been necessary for St. Louis to file the claim. This recognition was due St. Louis and the Southwest. The War Department, and particularly the officers of the air service who plotted the route, ought as a matter of policy and of justice to have given St. Louis its well-earned place in the itinerary of this flight. Their failure to do so is a mistake. They have slighted a city and a great section of the country that deserved better treatment. Unintentionally they have flouted a public sentiment which they themselves assert is indispensable if the United States is to secure and maintain its appropriate place in aeronautics.

WHO SHOULD PRESCRIBE FOR THE SICK?

On Sept. 4, in Equity Court at Washington, D. C., the Prohibition and Internal Revenue Commissioners will appear in support of the present official curb on liquor prescriptions, to try and prove that this curb is reasonable. To the contrary, Dr. William E. Philes of that city will contend that the rule limiting his prescriptions to 100 every 90 days is seriously interfering with his practice and treatment of patients, and working a hardship on those suffering from certain ailments, who cannot have more than one pint of liquor every 10 days under present regulations. Dr. Philes claims the regulations are unlawful and not based on correct observations of the needs of sick people.

It is more than likely that, in the case of Dr. Philes, the "drys" will get the decision. But the incident once more brings to the front the absurdity of permitting laymen to overrule physicians of standing in the matter of prescribing for the sick. In the Volstead act, only six doctors in the House of Representatives and three in the Senate had membership, or against the hundreds of lawyers and men of other professions who passed a law which gave the prohibition and revenue officials the right to prescribe for the sick. The liberty of the entire medical fraternity was taken away. The profession was treated as an ignorant infant. It is a dangerous precedent. There are large numbers of voters who do not believe in any medical treatment. Should they obtain power, they might legislate even more illiberally than the Congress that passed the Volstead act.

MR. DAWES MEETS MR. COOLIDGE.

Nobody asked Gen. Dawes if Mr. Coolidge sought to call him on the carpet for his speech in Maine, but Gen. Dawes took prompt occasion to deny it. "We did not discuss the Klan," he called to the reporters as he left the Coolidge home. "He (the President) called me up here to discuss the Agricultural Commission and its personnel. Finit."

It must have been an interesting two hours. Gen. Dawes had come straight to Vermont from an address in which he intimated the spirit of the Klan in the course of a few reassurances that he did not believe in its methods. His speech had alarmed both those Republicans who read in it an apology for the Ku Klux and those Republicans who thought it might embarrass the Klan-controlled G. O. P. in Maine and Indiana. Meantime, Mr. John W. Davis had been troublesome enough to challenge Mr. Coolidge to come out in the open and name names. It is not to be wondered that more than one reporter on the hay rick in Vermont jumped to the conclusion that the two halves of the Republican ticket were coming together to compare notes on the best way of handling a campaign problem.

Not a bit of it, however. At this interesting juncture in Republican strategy Gen. Dawes came all the way to Plymouth to talk about the weather or, what equals it as a matter of political importance, a new "commission" designed to do some more investigating and scare up enthusiasm among the farmers.

The Klan was not so much as mentioned Monday. We have Gen. Dawes' word for it. Might it just be, however, that without mentioning the Klan these two statesmen talked about a way of handling it? That would fit the amenities of the occasion. There is nothing to make the country think, so far, that Mr. Coolidge calls the Klan the Klan.

A HERO OF THE HIGHWAY.

If there were more young men like J. Alvan Borah Jr., 20 years old, there would be fewer criminal automobile drivers at large. Borah's act reads like fiction. Standing a half-block distant he saw his mother ridden down, saw the machine pause and then speed on toward him. As the car approached he grabbed hold and found himself swinging in the air, so sudden was the jerk. Finally getting his footing he compelled the driver to return to the scene of the accident and submit to arrest. When the victim died following the release of the prisoner on bond he was rearrested on the more serious charge.

Too many instances there are when witnesses do not even have the wit to look at the number of a car driven by one of the barbarians of the highway following a homicide. This young man combined wit with courage and power of quick decision.

MR. DAWES' HARDHOOD.

In his Maine speech Mr. Dawes had the hardihood to bring up a subject which, in view of the history of the past three and a half years, he might wisely have suppressed. He attacked Mr. Davis for making an "oratorical appeal" to "install with him in power a party which has demonstrated in the past business incapacity."

It might have been hoped after the Shipping Board record of the administration, the Veterans' Bureau record and the graft record of the Interior and Justice Departments that we would hear no more of Republican business superiority and "Democratic incapacity." How can a man speaking for an administration that sold a line of first-class steamships for less than it had paid for repairs have the effrontery to speak of the business incapacity of any other party? Can it be that Mr. Dawes, who never gets tired of denouncing demagogues and politicians, is capitalizing the ignorance or the failing memory of his audiences?

THE BATTILING WURPS.

Emery Wurf: Listen, Em, darling: there's something I want to tell you, if you won't fly up about it. How about me bringing a friend home to supper tonight?

Emma Wurf: What?

Emery: I know it; I know it! There you go. I can't even make a suggestion around this lot without you flying up like a grained popcorn seed.

Emma: A suggestion? Do you call that a suggestion? Did I actually understand you to say that you're gonna bring somebody home to cook your meals?

Emery: No; I was just wondering if you'd let me.

Emma: Well, keep right on wondering. Bring a friend home for supper? Imagine that!

Emery: I know I was when I married you.

Emma: Don't worry; I never had my right sense, either.

Emery: You still haven't. Emma: You brute. You haven't a bit of consideration for my feelings. Bring a friend home for supper, some bum at that. I suppose. The very idea! It's had enough that I have to cook your meals.

Emery: Burn 'em, you mean.

Emma: Without standing over a hot stove, perspiring like a sieve full of water, preparing a feed for one of your good-for-nothing sons? That's the only kind you ever associate with.

Emery: I know that. You notice that I've gone out a great deal with your brother here of late, and of course I had to stake him to everything as usual.

Emma: You got enough out of him for that. He helped you with the garage and painted the fence and varnished the floors. That's more than your bum friends ever do for you.

Emery: I'll have you know that none of my friends are bums. Understand that! I'll get you a calling card, respectable people bums. Understand that! What if any of their wives heard you bawling that around here like a loud speaker? Bill Bricks' wife, for instance.

Emma: I want her to! She and me ain't no femme d'homme and Pythias anyway. She's nothing at all and neither is her husband. He's the one who's keeping you out late at nights and putting you up to things.

Just because he doesn't help his wife with the dishes ain't no sign that you're not going to. I'm no slave around here, although I work like one.

Emery: Sure, I know you do—when a bunch of your telegram friends are supposed to drop in for a jaw-jaw. You work to drop in the bone cleaning and decorating the place up, so that they'll have nothing to talk about. You go through more trouble than a duck preparing to go to sleep for a peck of dimes who never go near a kitchen, unless it is for the purpose of heating up their curling irons with which to curl up their false hair. What's more, they've got appetites like starved orphans and eat like a drove of excited geese, and spill coffee all over the place, and then when they finally go to leave, they only laugh and talk about you for your pains.

But all that's all right, but when I'm supposed to bring a friend home for supper—

Emma: A bum, you mean. You'll not bring any bum home with you for supper or for anything else; that's final!

Emery: I wouldn't want to. Not with the kind of meals you cook up.

Emma: You big overgrown brute! See how!

THE EGRET RETURNS.

A few years ago we were told that the egret, that beautiful white heron which furnished stinky plumes for millinery's hat, had practically disappeared from our Southern glades. Then a Federal law which made the feathers unmarketable put an end to the killing. Florida helped by establishing bird sanctuaries—until today the State has a total of 68.

Now we hear that the egret is coming back. No longer slaughtered in the mating season to satisfy the commerce that dealt in its plumage, it has had chance to multiply. This, the most beautiful of all the herons, is seen in increasing numbers in the Florida sanctuaries.

These Florida sanctuaries have done still more. The plain egret, sometimes called the roseate spoonbill, is also coming back. The gorgeous cardinals and tanagers, the melodious mocking bird, the bluebird and the warbling are all seen in increasing numbers. Florida is becoming a land of plumage and song once more. Only the blue heron, the flamingo are gone forever—help for them came too late.

There is a good deal of a lesson in what Florida, with Federal aid, has done for its birds. It is the lesson of conserving while there is still something to conserve. But it is no more than Wisconsin can do for its wild life, if it will. We still have the lands to create our sanctuaries, not one or two, but enough to serve all the State. We can have our deer, our muskies, our song-birds 100 years from now—if we want—Milwaukee Journal.

OUCH!

Said Charley Dawes: "Respect the laws and do the best you can. Although they may be full of flaws. Avoid the Ku Klux Klan. While I respect their point of view and ideals so high, their methods we should all eschew." And he winked the other eye. L. C. D.

TOUGH LUCK.

Jim Dillard had bad luck when he went squirrel hunting Tuesday of this week. He found a squirrel, and after following him from tree to tree for about a half hour, he finally got the wily creature to sit still long enough for him to take aim, and just as he was ready to pull the trigger he had to sneeze—Situation (Mr.) Standard.

DAWES AND THE KLAN.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.
CHARLES G. DAWES is present in the Ku Klux Klan by name. He is a member of the Klan in Kentucky.

There was repeated cheering when he, and a partner, dressed as a boy, received the "booby" prize for his costume at a fancy dance last night. It had been said that he would not appear in costume, but, at a late hour, after he had danced without costume, he appeared in a costume which was "Apache."

It was learned today that Mrs. Richard Nathan, who is traveling with the Prince's party, had some difficulty in making up as the boy companion to the Prince. The trouble was encountered in finding a costume which was sufficiently small to hold up the trousers, which were too long for Mrs. Nathan. The result achieved, however, was quite successful.

After early in the morning the Prince was having his boxing bout at 1:30 yesterday. This he followed with a swim and other exercises in the afternoon.

The Prince is delighted with the attitude of his fellow passengers, giving him freedom from special attention. He practiced with his tag-of-war team, which is to compete with a team composed of Americans. The latter outweigh the Prince's team but have offered to adjust weights, so as to equalize them.

Occasionally, Wales has a private poker party in his own suite, but he is generally out in the open air and sunshine.

Plans to Dodge Federal Reception in New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Prince of Wales will be met by a private yacht outside of Quarantine, when he arrives on his trip to America. Friday morning it was learned yesterday, and will be taken to Oyster Bay, L. I., from where he will motor to the James A. Borden estate, at Syosset, where he will receive the King of the South Sea Islands.

This arrangement will eliminate the usual naval salute and a formal reception, as he will reach Manhattan.

Among those on board the yacht will be Maj. Oscar Sillitoe, the President's junior aide, and former military attaché to the American Embassy in London, who will be the personal representative of the President; and Third Assistant Secretary of State J. Rufus Wright, who will welcome the Prince on behalf of the Government.

Mr. Wright, Mr. Borden, Mr. Ambassador, and Maj. E. D. Mearns, secretary to the Prince, will have been here for a month, waiting for the Prince's visit to the United States.

News to Have Keweenaw Party.

The Keweenaw and Keweenaw of Keweenaw Island will give a large party on the hospital grounds, Keweenaw and Keweenaw, to greet the Prince. The party will be held on the grounds of the Keweenaw, and will consist of a large number of guests.

ST. LOUIS GIRL
DANCES WITH WALES

Place Chooses Miss Lenore Cahill as Partner on First Visit to Ballroom.

From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

ON BOARD THE S. S. BERENGARIA, Aug. 27.—The Prince of Wales, who began the day with a light breakfast, ended it last night by joining the throng of passengers in the Berengaria's ballroom and dancing with Lady Mountbatten and other members of his party, and with Miss Lenore Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cahill, 4475 Lindell boulevard, St. Louis, Mo. It was the first time the Prince had entered the ballroom except as a spectator.

The St. Louis girl chosen for his partner is traveling with her aunt, Mrs. W. P. Burke.

The Prince started the evening last, which has become a daily feature of his routine, before breakfast. Then he went to other exercises in the gymnasium, including a plunge in the swimming pool.

In the afternoon he practiced the tag-of-war again, with the team which he previously had beaten. Present plans are for a tag tomorrow between the Prince's team and an American team.

Miss Cahill has been abroad for a year.

Miss Cahill is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Cahill of 4475 Lindell boulevard. Her father is in the realty and investment business.

Mrs. Cahill left St. Louis today for New York to meet her daughter upon the arrival of the Berengaria tomorrow.

Miss Cahill has been abroad for a year, having left this country in August, 1923, in company with a relative, Mrs. William F. Burke of New Orleans, and several exhibitions, and appeared in the Junior League Follies of 1920 and subsequent years. She was a member also of the Fortnightly Club.

On her recent travels in Europe, the party has been informed, Miss Cahill won prizes for solo dancing at St. Moritz, Switzerland, and at Menton, a Riviera resort.

CONTESTS OVER STATE COMMITTEE POSTS SPIRITED

Ku Klux Klan Defeated in Attempt to Elect Democratic Members in Fifteenth District.

DR. ENLOE, FAVORED BY BAKER, BEATEN

Anti-Boss Faction of G. O. P. in Jackson County Is Victorious in Defeating Old Guard Candidate.

The Ku Klux Klan issue, the primary race for nominations for Governor, and local situations were among considerations resulting in spirited contests over election of Democratic and Republican State Committee members yesterday at organization meetings of Congressional District Committees in the 15 congressional districts of the State.

The Klan was beaten in its attempt to elect Democratic State Committee members in the Fifteenth District, the meeting being held at Joplin. Each of the four State committee members elected are known to be hostile to the Klan. They are E. J. McNutt of Aurora, G. F. Newburger of Joplin, Mrs. Ida Woodside Dugan of Neosho, and Mrs. Katherine Holtermann of Joplin. The meeting was closed to the public, but it was learned after adjournment that the Klan issue had been raised and Klan candidates had been defeated.

Dr. C. F. Enloe defeated Dr. C. F. Enloe of Jefferson City, who was active in directing the primary campaign of Sam A. Baker, Republican nominee for Governor, and who was favored by Baker for election to the Republican State Committee from the Eighth District. Dr. Enloe was defeated after the committee had been deadlocked at Jefferson City for 24 ballots.

Enloe and Hugh Stinson, a State committeewoman, opponents of Enloe substituted William Harrison of Eldon for Stinson on the twenty-fifth ballot and on the twenty-sixth ballot Enloe was elected by a vote of 9 to 1.

While Baker had not stated his preference for chairman of the Republican State Committee, Enloe had been frequently mentioned for the chairmanship. It was learned that Baker had conferred with an officer of the Congressional Committee yesterday before the meeting and had indicated he desired that Enloe be placed on the State Committee. Under the election law enacted by the last Legislature the chairman must be selected from membership of the State Committee. Previously the chairman was not required to be a member. Enloe is secretary of the State Board of Health, by appointment of Gov. Hyde.

Williamson Successor Enloe.
Election of former Circuit Judge George H. Williamson of Webster Groves, as Republican State committeewoman from the Tenth District, has caused mention of him as a possible candidate for State chairman. He succeeds Fred Eason, Republican boss of St. Louis County, on the State committee, having Enloe's backing for the position.

W. A. McAtee, of Springfield, is another mentioned for the Republican chairmanship. Joshua Barbee, primary campaign manager of Dr. Arthur W. Nelson, Democratic nominee for Governor, is the outstanding candidate for the Democratic State chairmanship. He was elected to the State committee in the Fifth (Kansas City) District.

Anti-Boss Faction Wins.
The anti-boss faction of the Republican party in Jackson County, the Fifth District, was victorious in its attempt to elect J. Newton Daniels, lumberman, to the Republican State Committee. He was elected by a vote of 24 to 23. The organization meeting of the Congressional District Committee was held at Independence.

Four men were placed in nomination for the Democratic State Committee in the Tenth (St. Louis) District, at the meeting yesterday afternoon at 614 Manchester avenue. They were: John P. Hany, 4401 Southwest avenue, Adam Henry Jones, 1100 Broadway, Attorney at Law, St. Louis; Charles L. Shotwell of St. Louis County, and Charles A. Lamp, vice president of the Liberty Central Trust Co. The vote was: Hany, 44; Jones, 25; Lamp, 19, and Shotwell, 7. Mrs. William Kinney, 1421 McKean avenue, and Miss Adeline O'Connor, 1165A Page boulevard, were elected State Committeewomen. Three other women placed in the nomination, but defeated, were Mrs. R. E. Oldfather, vice chairman of the Manager of the City Committee; Mrs. J. T. Dandridge, Twenty-fifth Ward Committeewoman, and Mrs. Oscar H. Doermann, Central Township Committeewoman.

As has been told, the State committee elections yesterday were the first held under the "64-64" election law, passed by the last Legislature.

In Memory of Mt. Everest Expeditions That Failed

The recent expedition which strove unsuccessfully to reach the summit 29,000 feet high, losing two of its men after they had gone to 28,300 feet at which height they disappeared, never being seen again, erected this cairn, bearing the accompanying legends at the base of the mountain. It is a memorial not only to the expedition that has just failed but also to its predecessors of 1921 and 1922. The legend bears the names of Irvine and Mallory who climbed to 28,300 feet and were never seen again.

Peter Pappas, 18, Got Beyond Depth When Swimming With Several Companions.

Peter Pappas, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pappas, 3851 Olive street, was drowned yesterday afternoon when swimming with a party of picknickers in Muddy Creek, eight miles west of Sedalia, Mo.

Pappas, who had spent the week previous at the State Fair at Sedalia, had gone to the G. W. Steele farm near Dresden with a group of friends for a day's outing. He was unable to swim and when he got beyond his depth his companions, who attempted to rescue him, but their efforts were unavailing. When he was taken from the water, use of a pulmotor failed to revive him.

Pappas was graduated from St. Louis University High School last June and was on a hike through the state during vacation. He was brought to this country from Greece at the age of 4. Besides his parents, he is survived by a younger brother, Daniel, and two younger sisters, Elizabeth and Christine.

$44,700,000 EXEMPT OF TAX IN COUNTY

State Commission Also Reports $88,300,000 for Jackson, Which Includes Kansas City.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 27.—The State Tax Commission, which is preparing a report for the next Legislature on the amount of property exempt from taxation in Missouri, yesterday completed its compilation for St. Louis County and Jackson County, showing a total of $44,755,157 in tax-exempt property in St. Louis County and $88,322,379 in Jackson County, including Kansas City. Work on reports for all other counties of the State is in progress.

As related in the Post-Dispatch, the commission recently compiled a report on tax-exempt property in the City of St. Louis, which totaled $209,822,379. Several small items are to be added to this which will increase the St. Louis city figure to more than $210,000,000. Of this amount more than $120,000,000 represents property owned by the city. Its estimates were made by the commission on the basis of the assessment rates shown on the property plates of the City Assessor.

Purpose of the Report.
This report is being prepared by the commission to provide the Legislature with information as a guide in any tax legislation.

The report on tax-exempt property for St. Louis County shows the following items:

Property of Federal Government, including postoffices, $1,000,000.
Real and personal property, owned by incorporated towns, $69,000.
County-owned property, $231,000.
Cemeteries, $5,000,000.
Charitable institutions, $1,500,000.
Churches, $1,250,000.
Parochial schools, $1,000,000.
Denominational colleges and universities, not including Washington University, $1,500,000.

Schools and buildings for public schools, $79,000,000.
Equipment of public schools, $321,000.
Property used exclusively for agricultural and horticultural societies, $60,000.

Property of Washington University in St. Louis County, $7,250,000. The report for the City of St. Louis showed the property of Washington University within the city limits valued at $4,127,275. The university is operating under a charter obtained previous to adoption of the present Constitution in 1875, and this charter exempted the university from taxation, aside from any constitutional provisions, the commission stated.

City's Property in County.
Property owned by the City of St. Louis in St. Louis County, $1,000,000. This includes industrial houses and an institution for feeble-minded persons.

Chairman Roy Monier of the Tax Commission today said that the city limits of St. Louis are not always "opposed to anything progressive," as Lockwood says certain advocates of the curb removals have intimated, he says the city is removing its single track on Morgan street, from Fourteenth to Twenty-ninth streets, and is double-tracking on Franklin avenue, as requested by the City Plan Commission. The immediate cost of this work is said to be $176,000 and the ultimate cost more than $200,000.

The United Railways also spent $17,000 to remove its poles from the middle of Delmar boulevard, west of Skinker road, when University City established new curb lines and repaved the street, Lockwood says.

CONTRACTOR SEARCHING FOR HIS WIFE AND THEIR BOARDER
Alexander Hunter Tells Police of Disappearance of Pair Together With Household Effects.

Alexander Hunter, of 3431 Kosciusko street, a building contractor, is searching today, with the aid of the police, for his wife, Ida, and their boarder, Frank R. Paldano, and some $150 worth of household effects which disappeared yesterday while Hunter was at work.

All was well, Hunter told the police, when he left home yesterday morning, but when he returned at 4:30 p. m. he found the place uninhabited and stripped of most of its furnishings, including curtains, linens, dishes, including a sewing machine. Paldano, he said, had been boarding at his home since February, when he was discharged from the army. Hunter expressed a belief that the two may have gone to New York, where Paldano's family reside.

Mrs. K. Denoyer of 164 Cahokia street, a neighbor, said Mrs. Hunter told her yesterday she intended leaving her husband because he stayed out late at night. Hunter is 35 years old and his wife 22. Paldano is 12.

HOUSTON, Tex., Aug. 27.—Herman Leuschke, 61 years old, a watchman at the Texas State Works, lost his life in a fire that swept through that plant a 9 o'clock last night. The man's body was found by his 15-year-old son at 3 o'clock this morning after the youth had spent the night searching the ruins.

Williams, founder of the Royal Order of Friends of the World, a national negro fraternal insurance organization, was re-elected supreme president of the organization yesterday at its convention in the Union Memorial M. E. Church. Mrs. L. S. Bryant, who, Mrs. Dr. Williams, has held office since the founding of the society in 1903, was re-elected supreme endowment secretary.

U. R. WILLING TO MOVE ITS TROLLEY POLES
Lockwood, However, Says It Will Oppose Taking Up Cobbling Around Delmar Tracks.

The United Railways is willing to move its trolley poles from the middle of the street to one side of Delmar boulevard, from Clara to Hamilton avenues, but is unwilling to remove the curbs from each side of the Delmar street car tracks from Kingshighway boulevard to Clara avenue.

This statement was made by R. J. Lockwood, assistant manager for the receiver of the United Railways, yesterday, denying that the United Railways has been opposed to having the poles moved to one side. The collision of a motor bus with one of these poles at Delmar boulevard and Goodfellow avenue, Aug. 22, has been used as another argument for their removal.

An ordinance providing for the widening of Delmar from Clara to Hamilton avenue has been passed and the United Railways stands ready to move its trolley poles to one side as soon as the new curb lines are established. Lockwood says, adding that the situation west of Hamilton avenue is complicated by the unsettled status of grade crossing plans.

The movement to have the curbs along the car tracks removed is initiated by "a few automobile dealers on Delmar west of Kingshighway and fathered by the Kings-Del Association." Lockwood continues. Their removal is opposed by the United Railways on the grounds this stretch of track is relatively free from street car automobile accidents, permits a street car speed of 15 miles an hour as compared with eight elsewhere, is less noisy than tracks on a hard foundation, and, by allowing for loading platforms, is much safer.

A bill to compel the removal of these stone curbs was passed by the Board of Aldermen, but was vetoed by Acting Mayor Neum, who said it was improperly drawn. "The officers of the United Railways appreciate the arguments and viewpoint of those interested in the removal of the curbs, but they feel they must oppose that which they feel is not in the interest of the greater number of street car riders," Lockwood declares.

An proof the United Railways is not "always opposed to anything progressive," as Lockwood says certain advocates of the curb removals have intimated, he says the city is removing its single track on Morgan street, from Fourteenth to Twenty-ninth streets, and is double-tracking on Franklin avenue, as requested by the City Plan Commission. ## BANKER HUSBAND YET OF NO. 1, COURT SAYS

A. B. Gwathmey of New York Got Divorce in Texas and Then Wed Mrs. Judd.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—A premier court justice here yesterday that Archibald B. Gwathmey, banker, still is the husband of his first wife, although he recently married the second, Mrs.
Mrs. Betsy Judd, after a divorce had decreed that his divorce was legal in Texas last January.

Justice Burr granted the Mrs. Gwathmey an injunction restraining the banker from proceeding in any way in accord with the terms of the Texas decree, which he held to be invalid and a "fraud upon the courts of Texas." The first Mrs. Gwathmey and the new Mrs. Judd, who is a resident of New York, he further ruled that Gwathmey could prosecute a divorce action against his first wife
in any State other than New York.

The decision was made in connection with the application of the banker's lawyers that the court dismiss a supplemental complaint
recently filed by Mrs. Gwathmey
No. 1 in a suit for separation.
Justice Burr's decision, in effect,
does not recognize the former Mrs.
Judd as Gwathmey's wife and holds him answerable to the first Mrs. Gwathmey's action for a separation, which is based on charges of cruelty.

Gwathmey and his first wife were married soon after Gwathmey left college. Last year, the banker instituted divorce proceedings in Texas after claiming to have established a residence there. Mrs.
Gwathmey was not served with papers in the action and did not appear as a defendant when the decree was issued last January.

Mrs. Gwathmey recently attacked the Texas decree in a divorce action in the local courts, naming Mrs. Judd as co-defendant.
A jury found that Mrs. Judd and the banker were innocent of wrongdoing and held that the Texas decree was legal. Gwathmey and Mrs. Judd were married in Connecticut a few days later.

CAUGHT BY COLLECTOR KOELN
Fish Weighing 125 Pounds Hooked
in Mississippi—Larger One Got Away.
An alligator bar six feet
long and weighing 125
pounds was caught in the Mississippi River by City Collector Koeln and a party of friends
Aug. 17 at Glen Station, 15 miles south of St. Louis.
Collector Koeln related today that a second alligator bar, which appeared to be about nine feet long, was hooked on the party's troutline, but broke loose, bearing the gaffs with which they attempted to land it.

On Aug. 12 a six-foot bar was killed by dynamite exploded in the Meramec River five miles above
the Mississippi by Deputy Sheriff Slevin and Harry Meremant of 6310 Michigan avenue, in accusing for the body of a drowned man, which later was found. A second bar of similar size was reported floating downstream, apparently dead. A photograph of the one landed in the Meramec is reproduced on the pictorial page of today's Post-Dispatch.

Co. Egan will actively direct the business, which is that of supplying electricity to East St. Louis and surrounding towns.

He succeeds W. H. Sawyer of East St. Louis, resigned. Frank J.
Boehm, vice president of Union Electric, becomes vice president of the east side company, succeeding L. C. Haynes.

The East St. Louis Light and Power Co. is one of a group purchased last autumn by the North American Co., which owns Union Electric. The group furnishes about 30 East Side cities and towns variously with light, gas and street railways. The light and gas business of the group now is placed under Egan. Sawyer remains as head of the street railways.

Centralizing Management.
"Today's action," Egan said, "is another step toward centralizing
the management of the business of supplying light and power to the St.
Louis district and contiguous territory in Illinois and Missouri."
"We are creating a super power system for that territory by the building of Cahokia and linking it with the Keokuk dam."

Egan also today succeeded Sawyer as vice president in charge of operation of the Alton Gas & Electric Co. Boehm was made assistant treasurer of that company. George W. Welsh, who was chief engineer of the East Side group of companies, becomes assistant to Sawyer in the operation of the railways. John L. Mitchell, who was assistant to Sawyer, has resigned that post, remaining as manager of the light company.

SUIT CHARGES LOAN FIRM EXACTED 10 PER CENT INTEREST

Former Switchman Declares He Lost Job Through Assignment
and Seeks $10,000 Damages.
Allegation that Charles E. LeRoy and others doing business as the Salary Purchasing Co., 620 Chestnut street, exacted 10 per cent interest for a two weeks' loan, is made in a suit for $10,000 damages
filed against them today by John Heath, 20 years old, of 2312 Lynch street.

Heath asserts he borrowed money from the defendants for about a year, paying 10 per cent interest every two weeks. For a $25 loan, for instance, he would return $27.50, and then repeat the process by taking out another loan. Last April, he alleges, the defendants served notice of an assignment of wages on the Frisco Railroad with the result that he lost his job as switchman and was forced into bankruptcy. He declares he had not signed the assignment, and,
instead of owing money, had more than repaid the loans.

LOSES HANDBAG AND JEWELRY

Woman Reports Disappearance of Police.
When Mrs. Elizabeth Parker of 2601 Iowa avenue prepared to leave her home yesterday for a trip downtown, accompanied by her nephew, Homer Gaertner, 12 years old, she placed her rings, valued at $500, and $22.50 in money, in her handbag, put the handbag in a basket and gave it to the nephew to carry.

The youth sat the basket down to open the garage door and climbed in the automobile, forgetting the basket. When they discovered the loss, a few minutes later, and returned, the basket had vanished. In reporting the loss to the police, the woman said she noted three boys run away, through the alley, as she returned.

Counterfeiting Plates Found.
Three copper plates, each as are used for counterfeiting $5 silver bank notes, were turned over to the police of the Mounted District, yesterday, by Henry Schaper of 2118 Stanbury street, an attendant at the zoo in Forest Park.
Schaper reported finding the plates near the bird cage, and were similar to one found recently near the bear pit. The plates will be turned over to the local office of the United States Secret Service.

Youth Admits Burglary.
A burglar was frightened out of the Stricker Bros. grocery, 5000 Wren avenue, early yesterday, by a passing pedestrian, who gave a description of him to the police.
Last night a 17-year-old boy, residing in the neighborhood, was arrested, and confessed. He said he hid his loot—five cartons of cigarettes—under a tub in a lot, but the cigarettes had been stolen
again when police went for them.
The prisoner will be sent to Juvenile Court.

Drinks Ammonia After Quarrel.
Mrs. Flora Estes, 31 years old, of 1815 Olive street, was removed to the city hospital, last night, suffering from the effects of drinking part of a bottle of ammonia. She said she drank the liquid after a quarrel with her divorced husband, Ward Estes, 35 of 1529
Olive street.

More than 4,000 Partners in this Great Power Plant

The reasons are clear why St. Louis men and women are investing their savings and becoming partners in this great new power plant.

Nearly
3
Millions Invested by St. Louisans in Cahokia

They know that the management of Cahokia is the management of Union Electric Light and Power Co. They have confidence in that management, because of its record with the money of other St. Louis savers. They know that 14,000
St. Louisans in the last seven years have entrusted more than $12,000,000 of their savings to that management and that no one of them has failed to receive dividends in that time. In fact, Union Electric has a record of 17 years of unbroken dividends.
They know further that no one of the 14,000 who have bought stocks offered by Union Electric management ever has been compelled to sell his stock for one cent less than he paid. They know that Cahokia will be a chief reliance of the St. Louis district for electricity for many years to come. They know that the demand of the district for electricity is doubling every five years. They know that they can confidently place their savings in an enterprise that is a public necessity, when the management is a management with a clear record.

St. Louis savers are recognizing more and more that Union Electric Preferred stocks satisfy four tests of a sound investment—Maximum safety... Good yield
... Ready marketability... A public demand for the product.

Sarazen, in Fine Form, Ineligible To Race Epinard

Zev and Wise Counselor Expected to Give French Champion Keen Struggle.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SARATOGA, Aug. 27.—"Out of luck" is the way the Fair Stable, with its exercise boys, trainers, handlers and jockeys, describes its situation with regard to Sarazen and the Epinard race.

The Fair Stable is owned and operated by Mrs. W. K. C. Vanderbilt. To a man the employee believes that the greatest horse on the horizon today is Sarazen, three years old, victor yesterday at one and three-eighths miles in the Huron Handicap, run over a muddy track and with Mrs. Vanderbilt's horse carrying 126 pounds.

It was Sarazen's third consecutive victory and his fourth in 19 consecutive victories in his 22-year-old days. But his recent races have proved that he is again the wonderful horse of old.

Geddings, who has been at Belmont next Monday. Geddings are barred from the first two races against Epinard, but will have their chance in the mile and one-quarter $10,000 Epinard race at Latonia.

Sarazen proved that he is not merely the "sprinter" they thought him. He has won successively at three-fourths of a mile, at one mile and now, at one and three-eighths miles. At the close of yesterday's drag through the mud he was going strong.

Zev, from the Rancho Stable, and Wise Counselor are likely to be the American favorites to beat Epinard Monday. Sarazen beat Wise Counselor in his last previous race.

Zev, because of his fast five-furlong workout, will probably be installed favorite for Monday's event, with Epinard about 2 1/2 or 3 to 1. Unless more favorable reports develop this week, he may soar even higher than that.

Epinard was shipped to Belmont track yesterday, and will finish his preparation there.

Class D Tennis Battle.

Two games will be played in Cornicana, then two in Tyler, and one in each of the two towns and then a play-off, if necessary, to be decided by the toss of a coin. The teams will play for the best four out of seven games.

Washington Fans Fussed Up Over Club's Fine Work

Team Has Won 11 of 14 Games; Ovation at Theater for Walter Johnson.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Manager Slater is figuring on using either Ernie Wiegman, the great left-hander, or Vangilder in the final St. Louis game here, of the season, this afternoon. The Browns will then make a quick get-away, leaving on the 6:30 o'clock train for home, there to face the Tigers on Friday.

The Griffs have beaten Wiegman on his home grounds, but he is a strong proposition to overcome the Washington fans are pulling for Slater to save him for the Detroit, using Wiegman.

If Wiegman ascends the mound this afternoon, it will be a battle of southpaws, as Manager Slater has selected Mogridge to lead his team. George has been pitching wonderful ball recently.

Slater and several of his men attended Keith's Theater here and witnessed a great demonstration for Walter Johnson. The leading lady tossed Walter a large bunch of roses and the Kansas cyclone bowed his acknowledgment to the wild cheers of the spectators.

Washington Fans all "Hot Up." The Griffs, since their return home from the last Western trip, have won 11 out of the 14 games played, thereby picking up two games on the Yankees. No wonder the Washington fans have gone daffy over the team!

In the double-header, yesterday, which was split on a 10-5 basis, the Browns won the first easily, owing to Shocker's great work, 7 to 0, and the second going to the Griffs, 6 to 2, through Ouden's steady twirling.

Secretary Willis Johnson was paid off yesterday on the basis of 15,187 spectators. With 7000 more and at least 10,000 today, President Ball will have something to console him for the bumps suffered here.

There was nothing to the first game yesterday but Shocker, and Manager Slater was wise in sending his second string twirling against him instead of wasting one of his stars, as Urban would have trimmed the best of them.

When it was seen that Shocker was right, striking out five men in the first three innings, the spectators settled back in their seats and waited patiently for the second battle to open.

Southpaws trouble the Griffs, as their best hitters bat from the left side, but Danforth really did nothing and in addition was well second game therefore went to the Senators as easily as did the first to the Browns. Ouden was at his best in the pinches and the good work of Prusett and Grant who succeeded Danforth went for nothing.

Kinsey and Murchison Meet Country's Stars

City Hurdler Looks Like Winner in the 120-Yard Event.

Four of Sprint World Entered in Two Championship Events

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 27.—The national championships in sprint events at the U. S. title meet at Newark, Sept. 5, but Murchison, Murchison, Leoney and Bowman will all be there, it was announced today. At least their entries have been received.

Jackdock at first said that he would not compete, but later that he might. The receipt of his entry indicates his intention to run.

The contests between this sprinter is expected to settle the 100-yard supremacy, but even the 220-yard kingship in which, owing to the absence of Murchison, this year's champion will be decided at this distance. Leoney Murchison holds both the 100 and 220 yards.

Olympic Sprint Champion.
NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 27.—The national track and field championships will be held September 5, 6 and 7, and will be contested on a track at the Newark Athletic Club for these events.

The first set of track and field events that were national in scope were held at the New York Athletic Club in 1876 with F. C. Saporito winning the 100-yard dash in 15.8 seconds. The following year the 100-yard event was added and won by Morris of the New York Athletic Club in 14.2 seconds. Now the championship records for the 100 and 220 yards, respectively, are 14.4 and 22.5 seconds.

JOE and ASBESTOS—There Is a Limit to Everything

White Sox Will Be Completely Reorganized for Next Year

Chance Will Not Come East Again to Lead Comiskey's Team, While Evers' Health May Not Permit Him to Manage Outfit.

By John B. Foster.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—It is whispered that there will be a complete reorganization of the playing end of the Chicago Americans. The report is hardly surprising, for if ever a baseball team started out on a hard luck course that had all the appearances of intending to continue indefinitely, Chicago started on such a course in 1924.

First of all, Frank Chance was made manager. No hard luck about that. In fact, quite the opposite. But Chance went to Chicago for the winter meeting of the league and became ill. He picked up a chill first and finally came down with bronchitis, asthma and pretty much everything else.

Chance came back to California and was not long before reports came back that he would be unable to join the club in spring practice. The result was that the Sox did not get just the practice that had been mapped out for them. At the start John Evers was in charge, but he did not know what to do all the time, because he kept expecting Chance to show up and did not want to enter upon anything that would conflict with Chance's ideas.

Finally Chance announced that he would not be able to manage the team at all. Evers was immediately named manager, but conditions were not what they would have been had he been in full charge all the time.

Eddie Collins Took Charge. By and by Evers came down with appendicitis and had to have an operation. That brought Eddie Collins to the helm and the team did well with him. Then Evers got well and rejoined the team and neither coach nor Evers has had any luck to speak of since. Evers has not recovered from the operation as he wished and he has been gradually worrying himself into more ill health. The Sox have caught the atmosphere of depression and themselves have become depressed until they found the cellar of the American League. Comiskey is so blue that indigo looks white by comparison and word has been received from California that Chance will not be with the Sox in 1925 and probably will not come back East. It is feared the climate would affect him and compel him to immediately retrace his steps. Evers is not certain whether his health is going to stand up, and if it does, there is a probability that a new manager will take charge next season.

The team expects to go abroad with the Giants for a European trip after the present season ends. It will not be a very representative team of the American League if it finishes in last place, and that is not doing Comiskey any good. The old Roman is still proud and he wants the best or none. He is a winner himself and he can't get away from the idea of being one with any club that he may control.

Some Players Growing Old. The White Sox have some players who are growing old and some who will hardly make the grade in the American League if they live to be as old as Nick Alcock. The pitching staff needs strengthening and Schalk has found out that he cannot catch forever. The infield needs speed. The outfield would do pretty well if the rest of the team showed more strength.

ALL FEATHERWEIGHTS TO BATTLE FOR TITLE. NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The world's featherweight boxing crown, returned to the State Athletic Commission last week by its owner, Johnny Dundee, because he had outgrown it, will be placed on the open market for the 126-pounders soon, the commission decided yesterday.

The details of the competition were not revealed but it was understood that the commission had in mind a plan which will give every 126-pounder a chance for the title.

PADDOCK TO COMPETE IN CLEVELAND GAMES. CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—Charles Paddock, premier sprinter, will participate in an exhibition race at the Lorain relief track and field carnival here Sept. 10. It was announced by those in charge yesterday. The meet is sanctioned by the Ohio division of the Amateur Athletic Union. The distance of the race has not been decided.

Mary Browne to Seek Golf Title

Former Tennis Champion in Field That Starts in National Tourney Monday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Miss Mary K. Browne, former national women's tennis champion, will strive for national honors on the golf links in the women's championship which opens Monday at the Rhode Island Country Club, at Providence.

Miss Browne will find stern opposition in her quest for new honors. Miss Edith Cummings of Chicago will be defending her title and among the formidable rivals will be Glenna Collett, long-hitting Providence star, who won the championship in 1922; Miss Marion Hollins of Southampton, N. Y., 1921 champion; Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, two-time champion, and Miss Miriam Burns of Kansas City, former Western champion.

St. Louis will have a strong contender for the title in Miss Audrey Faust of the St. Louis Country Club.

Field of 90 to Start. A field of 90 players will start in the qualifying round on Monday, which will determine the 32 players surviving for match play the rest of the week.

The only prominent figure missing from the list is Miss Alexia Stirling of Atlanta, three times champion, whose illness has prevented her from entering the tourney for the first time since she first won it in 1916.

Miss Cummings is paired with Miss Elizabeth Gordon of Providence in the qualifying round, which starts at 10 a. m. Miss Hollins is paired with Miss Miriam Burns of Merriam, Kan.; Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt of Dallas, Tex.; Miss Browne, with Mrs. Quentin F. Felner of Chicago, and Miss Collett with Mrs. F. C. Letts of Chicago.

Other important pairings include: Mrs. Donald Barlow, Philadelphia, and Mrs. Henry R. Watson, Canton, Mass.; Mrs. Caleb Fox, Philadelphia, and Miss Audrey Faust, St. Louis; Miss Anita Lyhne, Watch Hill, R. I., and Miss Florence Freeman, Nantucket, Mass.; Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck, Philadelphia, and Miss Harriett Curtis, Essex County, N. J.; Miss Maureen O'Leary, Hawthorn, N. J., and Miss Dorothy Higbie, Chicago; Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, O., and Mrs. H. Arnold Jackson, Greenwich, Conn.

A national championship tournament with the winner proclaimed as champion, open to all the world, Lewis and Piestine included, would be another way to settle Lewis' case effectively. Wladek Zbyszko, this plan and promoters could lose nothing trying it.

Real Progress. THE Louisiana Commission is blazing a trail through a jungle that long has obstructed the boxing game. The commission has ordered doing away with all announcers and the substitution of printed cards with the names and weights of the fighters, above the corner of each principal.

Announcers today are obsolete because in big auditoriums, they cannot be heard. The signs can not be mistaken. Then, too, the army of has-beens, would-be and nobodies who throng the ring seeking the limelight and introductions, hampering the progress of contests would be sidetracked.

The Louisiana and other boxing commissions should also adopt an electrical timer. Instead of a human one, and an automatic second-counter for knockdowns, still further adding to the obligation of ringiders.

Considering the vast sums spent on boxing, the obsolete methods prevailing in ring affairs are almost unbelievable. The wonder is that the fan submits to inconvenience, annoyance and high prices and still comes back for more.

Boxing must be the world's most popular sport, for its followers give up more and receive less than in any other pastime, except wrestling.

Epinaud "Bear" Stories. DISCOURAGING reports about Epinaud may be discounted. A number of recently taken photographs show that this horse is in fine physical condition. His rib markings are visible underneath the satin skin. He is playful after his workouts and shows every indication of being at his best.

Epinaud's trainer is an American and it is not his nature to tip off to the full just what can be expected of Epinaud, Monday. Our guess is that turf followers will be treated to a surprise, if they take that mile 1:42 4-5 as a sample of Epinaud's racing condition.

Field Will Be Limited. THE field that will oppose Epinaud is said to be dwindling daily. Among the horses

WRAY'S COLUMN

Smoking Out Lewis. THE wrestling game is beginning to warm up, once more, and shortly we shall see Champion Ed Lewis peaking into St. Louis backyard looking for more pickings.

St. Louis has been kind to Lewis. It has given him not less than $50,000 for his various visits here and it can't be said that the champion has given value received in return.

Lewis seems to have seriously handicapped promoters and stylied his rivals by refusing to meet competitors whom he figured were dangerous to his title. He persistently has wrestled in a circle, side-stepping men like Wladek Zbyszko, Stecher, Piestine and others. It is said that he will not risk his title seriously except under a guarantee of $50,000.

Cheap at the Price. THE reason is perfectly obvious, since the title already has been worth several times that sum to him and still is good for an annual income of over $100,000. One match against practically a set up last season drew $22,500.

Lewis therefore wants to play the game to the end of the string before taking serious risk. One way (cheap at the price) to get rid of him would be to pay him $30,000 and get him beaten— if he's as easy as his rivals say.

How to Stop Lewis. THERE is no wrestling association to force Lewis out of his bombproof and take the championship from him. There is one way to stop him, however, and that is by the combined refusal of promoters to put him on, of wrestlers to meet him and of the public to pay to see him.

But thus far all efforts have failed and Lewis continues to harvest the kale while the disappointed rivals yammer dolefully outside.

A national championship tournament with the winner proclaimed as champion, open to all the world, Lewis and Piestine included, would be another way to settle Lewis' case effectively. Wladek Zbyszko, this plan and promoters could lose nothing trying it.

Real Progress. THE Louisiana Commission is blazing a trail through a jungle that long has obstructed

the boxing game. The commission has ordered doing away with all announcers and the substitution of printed cards with the names and weights of the fighters, above the corner of each principal.

Announcers today are obsolete because in big auditoriums, they cannot be heard. The signs can not be mistaken. Then, too, the army of has-beens, would-be and nobodies who throng the ring seeking the limelight and introductions, hampering the progress of contests would be sidetracked.

The Louisiana and other boxing commissions should also adopt an electrical timer. Instead of a human one, and an automatic second-counter for knockdowns, still further adding to the obligation of ringiders.

Considering the vast sums spent on boxing, the obsolete methods prevailing in ring affairs are almost unbelievable. The wonder is that the fan submits to inconvenience, annoyance and high prices and still comes back for more.

Epinaud "Bear" Stories. DISCOURAGING reports about Epinaud may be discounted. A number of recently taken photographs show that this horse is in fine physical condition. His rib markings are visible underneath the satin skin. He is playful after his workouts and shows every indication of being at his best.

Epinaud's trainer is an American and it is not his nature to tip off to the full just what can be expected of Epinaud, Monday. Our guess is that turf followers will be treated to a surprise, if they take that mile 1:42 4-5 as a sample of Epinaud's racing condition.

Field Will Be Limited. THE field that will oppose Epinaud is said to be dwindling daily. Among the horses only half a dozen besides Epinaud. Wise Counselors and Zev are two that are practically certain to run. Baffling, representing the Idle Hour Farm, which $60,000 was refused, is said to be another. Miss Starr is a sure starter and will be added by the once-famous Jockey Fred Tural.

Berlenbach Meets Stribling Tonight In 6-Round Bout

Georgia Lightweight Will Be Favorite to Beat New York Boxer.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Paul Berlenbach, New York light-heavyweight, will face the acid test tonight at the Veldrome A. C. when he meets Young Stribling, sensational Macon, Ga., schoolboy boxer in a six-round boxing encounter. The match has excited intense interest in pugilistic circles.

The bout originally was scheduled for the Yankee Stadium, June 28, as one of the headlines of the Milk Fund bouts, but an injury to Berlenbach caused a postponement. Stribling, who has been training with Firpo at Saratoga Springs, came to New York yesterday and finished his boiling hot process in Madison Square Garden. At the completion of this light exercise he tipped the scales at 168 pounds, two pounds under the notch the boys signed for. Berlenbach weighed 166 pounds.

Stribling and Berlenbach weighed in at 167 1/2 pounds each at the offices of the State Athletic Commission at 2 o'clock today. Stribling will enter the ring as the favorite due to his defeat of Mike McTigue, world's champion, at Newark, N. J., on March 31, and also to his victory over Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia at the Milk Fund bouts. In 108 starts Stribling has scored 107 victories. Berlenbach appears to be in better condition than his opponent, but he has not been the same Berlenbach whom Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., knocked out at Madison Square Garden March 14.

ANOTHER SEIZURE OF KEG BEER BY POLICE

Source of Six Truck Loads Confiscated in Four Days Still a Mystery.

The seizure of two truckloads of keg beer yesterday, the source and destination of which remains a mystery, makes a total of six truck loads of beer confiscated within four days by police and Federal dry agents under similar circumstances.

Saturday morning dry agents seized two trucks of the "North St. Louis Sales and Service Co., 2306 North Nineteenth street," containing beer in the vicinity of Fifteenth street and Sullivan avenue. They arrested the drivers but could not determine the source of the beer.

Monday two trucks loaded with bottled beer in cartons were seized as they entered St. Louis over McKinley Bridge, and again the drivers were arrested, but the source undetermined.

The first seizure yesterday occurred when two detectives at Kingshighway and Delmar boulevards saw the driver of a truck frantically trying to replace a tarpaulin, which had become loose, so as to cover his load. They investigated and found 41 barrels of beer. The truck bore the name "Morgan Hauling Co.," but neither the driver, Thomas Loftus of 1014 North Garrison avenue, nor his helper, Frank Bierman of 1921 Sullivan avenue, could explain the origin or destination of the load.

A short time later, at Page boulevard and Kingshighway, three policemen saw another covered truck of the same company, which proved to contain 11 half barrels of beer. They could get no information from the driver, Edwin Taghader of 214 North Twenty-first street, or his helper, Paul Strand, 3967 North Broadway.

Warrants, charging violation of the State liquor enforcement law, were obtained against the first-named pair and similar warrants will be sought against the others today.

CONSIDER PERSIAN AMENDS FOR IMBRIE MURDER SATISFACTORY

U. S. Authorities Get Full Report of Honors Paid to Vice Consul's Body on Embarkation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch:
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The fullest amends have been made by the Persian Government for the murder of Maj. Robert L. Imbrie, late American Vice Consul, in charge at Teheran.

Honors paid the body of the American official by the Persian national authorities and people during the trip from the capital to the Port of Bushire, on the Persian Gulf, and its embarkation on the scout cruiser, Trenton, left nothing to be desired, authorities here said. In addition, the Persian Government has agreed to pay an indemnity of $60,000 to Mrs. Imbrie.

The body was embarked on the Trenton at noon Monday with full honors. The official convoy left Teheran on Aug. 17. Previous to its departure appropriate honors were rendered on the central military parade ground, including a salute by a special guard of honor of Persian troops and a cannon salute of 11 guns. During the journey to the Persian Iraq border, honors were rendered by the Persian civil and military authorities.

As the convoy left Persian soil, a second cannon salute was fired by the border garrison. At Bushire there were ceremonies at the dock, participated in by Persian military and civil authorities, armed detachments from the British naval vessel, Crocus, and an armed escort from the Trenton. The people of Bushire stood in silence as the procession marched through the streets. Persian cannon boomed an 11-gun salute as the body of Maj. Imbrie was lowered into the motorboat of the Trenton. Two seaplanes from the Trenton hovered over the boat as it moved slowly from the dock to the side of the Trenton. The Persian battery on shore fired a national salute.

The Trenton is due to arrive at Washington about Oct. 1.

So he nailed the chair to the floor

One of the most irritating offenders in the matter of halitosis (unpleasant breath) is the salesman who suffers this way and, usually, doesn't know it himself.

HIS sense of humor suggested it. But he really did it in self-defense to safeguard himself against that ever-present, eager type of salesman who pulls his chair up close, talks right into your face—and, too often, is an offender in the matter of halitosis (unpleasant breath).

You know the kind. Too often, poor fellows, they don't know it themselves. And their friends don't have the heart to tell them.

That's the insidious thing about halitosis (unpleasant breath). But fortunately there is a way to overcome it—the regular, systematic use of Listerine, the safe, liquid antiseptic and deodorant, used as a mouth wash and gargle.

Test the remarkable deodorizing effects of Listerine this way:

Apply a little Listerine to your hand. Then apply Listerine. Allow it to remain a moment. Then note how the onion odor has entirely disappeared.

Your druggist has Listerine: three sizes: 3 ounce, 7 ounce and 14 ounce bottles.—Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, U.S.A.

A FEW THINGS MADE CLEAR—CHAPTER 27.

Mrs. Marjorie and Tom Grosvenor reached Soundview, she had still not promised herself to him, though somehow, in her heart, she felt that she was going to do so. There must be, some way out of her marriage to Reed Hollister.

Mrs. Forester was standing on her veranda, wrapped in a fur

she beckoned the two ingenuities.

"My goodness, you children gave me a fright! I had visions of you and men with grappling hooks. . . . Come in, Marjorie, and beamed by my fire. Tom, I've an errand for you. That stupid hasn't sent the centerpiece for my dinner table tonight. Jump will you, and fly into town for it. There's a good boy."

When Tom had gone off in the direction of the garage, Mrs.

Forester drew Marjorie into her tiny library, where a cheerful fire warmed the hearth. A tea table with a spluttering kettle, swung on an alcohol lamp, stood close by.

Mrs. Forester seated herself and to brew the tea, while Mar-

Marjorie raised startled eyes

est on. "I wanted to talk before your mother saw

of course I've known for some time your crazy about you,

admitted Marjorie in a voice. "I think—I—I'm loving him."

"Mrs. Forester stirred thoughtfully. "It's sometimes ought to be darned surprising, this love business. What do you think you love him?"

Marjorie shrugged.

"—quite know," Marjorie said. "But I think it's being with him so that I feel so safe, so secure, so tranquil."

"That's rather a curious definition of a grade passion," commented Mrs. Forester. "When I love, I was anything but calm. I suffer agonies if my husband didn't call up, or write,

and sent flowers every twenty-four hours. I was always afraid

his siren who would take away from me. I yearned to be at the same time I loved it and then, when he blushed and tangled decently from head to foot and he kissed me I'd almost die of fright. Ah, well," she said, "hacun a son gaut! Perhaps times have changed since I was a girl in love. They take it very calmly now, I dare say. But now, I don't believe it lasts

long."

Marjorie was staring at her mother. "I'm quite sure that can't be it sounds—terrible. Sometimes reminds me of what I felt

when I was around—the fear of it, that is."

Mrs. Forester shrugged.

"Well, admitting that what you feel my audacious nephew is what are you going to do about it?"

"He wants me to get a divorce and marry him. I—

you know I can't.

"Why not?" crisply.

Marjorie stared.

Retribution

Retribution overtakes

Every one who mischief makes.

—Old Mother Nature.

DO NOT be afraid of that big word—retribution. It means simply that those who do wrong or get into mischief have to pay for it. Sooner or later they have to pay for it. Perhaps you will understand better just what it means when you read about what happened to Reddy

Fox.

You remember how Reddy

wanted to drive Buster Bear out of the Old Pasture, and, how cleverly he planned to get Buster into trouble with the wasps,

who had their great, gray paper

castle in a certain blueberry bush.

Everything had worked out as he had hoped it would. By chasing his tail he had aroused Buster

Bear's curiosity and gradually led him over to the bush in which was the castle of the wasps. Then he had hidden close by to watch what would happen.

Reddy had felt like hugging

himself as he saw Buster Bear

walk up to that blueberry bush

and begin to strip off the berries. He had had all he could do to keep from laughing right out

when Buster had felt the first sting and slumped at his smarting

ear. Then things had happened

so fast, just as Reddy had hoped that they would happen, that he rolled on the ground for joy. Yes,

he had done just that.

When at last Buster Bear had taken to his heels to get away from those angry wasps, Reddy

had come out from his hiding place with a broad grin on his face. "I guess that from now on Buster Bear will keep away from the Old Pasture," thought Reddy happily. "That was a clever trick of mine. Yes, that was a clever trick of mine. My, but those wasps were

WILL ROGERS, the cowboy comedian and humorist, is, in his lighter hours, a follower of the national game.

He tells a story of a youth who grew up in Oklahoma where Rogers was born, and who broke into organized baseball.

"His name," said Rogers, "was Pat Harty and he played in the T-O League down in my country. In those parts and in that company, he was known as a heavy clouter. One spring I heard that because of his stick work he had been given a chance on one of the big teams."

"I was appearing in St. Louis a little later on in the season and had time to take in part of a ball game with Slim Salles pitching for the home team. Up comes Pat to bat for the visitors and I started to root for the talent from my native land. But I didn't root long."

"Slim curled a few around his neck and he sat down. And he didn't make so much as a foul in his next two times up."

"I met him in the hotel after the game, but didn't let on that I had seen him in the afternoon. Instead, I asked him what he was doing so far away from Oklahoma."

"Well, Bill," said Pat, "they brought me here, for one thing, to show me the speed of the big league and, believe me, Bill, it ain't been overestimated none."

"Well, I certainly am distressed to hear it," said the visitor. Your father was a good citizen and he was bright, even if he had no education, and he had a philosophy that was all his own."

"Yes, sah, dat he did," agreed the pleased Sam. "His mind wuz clear right up to de end."

By Leonard Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Governor Smith has definitely and conclusively eliminated himself as a potential candidate for another term of the governorship. This action was taken yesterday at a conference between the Governor and George W. Olivany, leader of Tammany Hall. Olivany has accepted the Governor at his word, and is beginning immediately a series of conferences with the leaders of his organization, to determine which of the other available candidates will be acceptable to the rank and file of the New York Democrats.

The Tammany leader went to Gov. Smith yesterday, hoping that he might be able to induce the executive to fall in with the repeatedly expressed desire of State and national leaders that he run again. But the Governor told Olivany that his decision was made; that it was imperative that, at the conclusion of his present term of office, he no longer come back to a position which he can reserve his personal fortune.

The highest of the conference was to leave the Tammany organization up in the air as to its choice for a candidate. The Governor is said not to have made any suggestions, although there are some who believe that he would not object to Col. Frederick Stewart Green, his Public Works Commissioner, trying for the nomination. Col. Green rendered active support to the Governor during the latter's presidential candidacy fight, and is said to have been waiting only for the withdrawal of his chief before becoming an active candidate.

Olivany acknowledges that, with Gov. Smith out of the way, the organization is facing a difficult task, not because of any dearth of candidates, but because of the difficulty of picking a man who could measure up to the Smith standard in the matter of making friends.

Among those who are being considered are Lieutenant-Governor George W. Lunn; Attorney-General Carl Sherman; Mayor William H. Hackett of Albany and James W. Walker, majority leader of the Senate, with the possibility that surrogate W. Wingate of Brooklyn. Mayor Hylan and Secretary of State James A. Hamilton may later be put forward.

Will Not Insist on City Man. The only thing definitely decided is that Tammany will not insist on the selection of a New York City man, but will take a candidate from up state if he seems more available. While Mayor Hylan has the local organization backing, the present word is that, with Smith out of the way, he will make no attempt to forsake a $10,000 job for one paying less than that.

Lunn is not generally favored in Tammany, because of his Congressional action on the side of the prohibitionists. Walker would be acceptable, but is said to feel that he cannot afford to take the nomination. Sherman's record is generally recognized as a good one, but he arouses no particular enthusiasm. In consequence, there are many who believe that Tammany will give very favorable consideration to Mayor Hackett, an Albany banker popular in his home town and with a clean official record.

Tammany Calls on Forces to Rally to Davis' Standard.

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Tammany Hall today issued a call for mobilization of its entire strength in behalf of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential nominee. On Sept. 9 meetings will be held in each of the organization's 25 clubs in the city.
